Budget Requests Slashed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The University of Missouri and the state Division of Mental Diseases suffered the sharpest cuts today as the Senate Appropriations Committee reported budget bills totaling $1,082,902,124.

That was $25 million less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended and $23.7 million less than passed by the House.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, committee chairman, said he hoped the bills would be ready for Senate action next week. That would put them in shape for conference committee settlement and give the legislature a full month to study revenue problems and work out the final catch-all appropriations bill before the session ends June 30.

Patterson said that in view of prospective appropriations increases next year, the committee merely wanted to slow down the "rapid escalation" of mental health expenditures.

It cut the division's money a flat four per cent below the governor's recommendations and also slashed its capital improvements budget.

Most of the cuts came in capital improvements, including about $10 million from the University of Missouri.

The university, for all of its four campuses at Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla and St. Louis requested a total of almost $47 million. The House cut that to $23,176,000 and the Senate committee trimmed it to $13,326,000.

A multi-purpose auditorium to cost $7,650,000 was knocked out, along with $2.5 million for an addition to the chemistry building, both on the Columbia campus.

The committee also eliminated $350,000 for an addition to a university system building not yet started, cut a quarter of a million from the university's request for repairs and replacements, and halved M. U.'s request of $500,000 for campus development sites.

But it added $1.6 million to air condition older buildings on the Columbia, Kansas City and Rolla campuses.

Altogether, Gov. Hearnes asked $82,494,000 for capital improvements. The House cut that by about $2 million and the Senate committee slashed it to $57,507,000.

Central Missouri State at Warrensburg lost $2 million for a new language and literature building.

Improvements at Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, were cut $1,417,000 to $550,000; Northwest Missouri State, Maryville, from $1,320,000 to $320,000.

Southeast State at Cape Girardeau was increased from $2,452,000 to $2,469,000 and South west State at Springfield was boosted from $2,875,000 to $3,198,000.

Lincoln University's capital improvements budget of $867,500 was left untouched, but its operating budget was increased substantially, from $1,972,000 as approved by the House, to $2,122,000.

Patterson said this was intended to upgrade the staff at the Jefferson City school, where students recently demonstrated against the quality of food, facilities and faculty.

Other state college operating budgets were not touched. Southern State College at Joplin, now in the process of development, was cut from $459,000 to $289,000. A $40,000 item for Missouri Western College at St. Joseph was eliminated. That college has not yet started.

A proposed $160,000 marina at Trail of Trears State Park near Cape Girardeau was cut out.

The committee eliminated three proposed regional park board centers, reducing the board's operating budget from $2 million to $1,782,000.

The Division of Mental Diseases was left with a total operating budget of almost $49 million about $2 million less than the governor recommended.

Eliminated was $490,000 for the division to plan juvenile training and diagnostic centers at state hospitals and schools.

Capital improvements at the state hospitals also were cut.

At the Fulton State Hospital the amount was reduced from $1,172,000 to $746,000; at St. Joseph from $752,000 to $640,000; at Nevada from $749,000 to $674,000; at Farmington from $2,237,000 to $317,000 and at the St. Louis State School and Hospital from $1,055,000 to $55,000.

The committee also eliminated $3 million for construction of a new office building in Jefferson City, $500,000 for an addition to the state Supreme Court building and $300,000 for a new office building in St. Louis.

It added more than $9 million for reorganization of the state Department of Revenue, which Patterson said would make tax collections more efficient and perhaps cheaper in the long run.

The committee took care of one of the governor's pet projects by adding $200,000 to grade and prepare the site for a state operated airport at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park and $135,000 for airport lights and an administration building.

Marston Man Hit by Truck

Robertson was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston where he died at 6:35 p.m.

The body is at Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid.

To Discuss Bootheel Tourism

PORTAGEVILLE -- The Southeast Missouri Development Corporation will sponsor a six-county area meeting on outdoor recreation at the University of Missouri Delta Center next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Sam Jones, of East Prairie is chairman of the outdoor recreation committee, and has invited representatives from the six county courts, civic clubs, sportsman's clubs, Chambers of Commerce and mayors.

There is a lack of public recreational facilities in the Bootheel even though tourism is the second largest business in Missouri.

Robert Dunkerson, director of outdoor recreation in Jefferson City, will be the principal speaker. State and federal agency representatives will discuss their participation in planning and constructing recreational facilities.

Each county will attempt to present some definite projects for this year. The six counties served by SMDC are Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Land Being Graded For Farm Irrigation

Land grading, leveling and ditching has become the number one project on farmlands in the Bootheel area. With the advent of future need of increased production and changes in farming expected, land leveling and irrigation will continue at a much faster pace.

For the first time in three generations the present William Huff land, located between the north Sikeston city limits and Tanner road, has a program started. Huff is in partnership with Layton Hubbard.

The land was formerly owned by G. B. Greer, and later by Frank and Juanita VanHorne. The farm lies on the Sikeston ridge.

There will be 120 acres of the land leveled and irrigated, to be completed within the next week or 10 days. Ditches will be dug to drain about 250 acres.

The Soil Conservation Service, under the direction of Bob Landers, has outlined the drainage and leveling for the more than 1,000 acres that will be graded and drained in the years ahead.

The present work has a total of eight machines on leveling and grading, under the direction of the Anderson, Parker and Burch, Inc., of Matthews.

In the project a ditch measuring 1,300 feet in length on the east side of the land and 2,500 feet at the south portion, with a depth of five feet, will drain the first 250 acres to a pond on a low spot on the west side of a farm, a sandy area.

At the north portion of the first land leveling project, Huff will have two wells to furnish water for the 120 acres. The wells are 100 feet deep and will produce 2,700 gallons per minute through an eight-inch line.

Levees will be constructed to serve at the north and south ends of the basin, with a 15-foot difference in elevation between the field level and sump basin. Mechanical structures will be required to drop the runoff water from the field level to the sump and soil probes made by Louis Studer, agricultural engineer.

The land probes included nine, each to a depth of 10 feet. The top 12 to 18 inches was a fine sandy loam with high organic content, and the remaining eight to nine feet was a medium sand.

This year Huff has about 375 acres planted in wheat, to be followed with some 450 acres of soybeans and about 125 acres in cotton. The balance of the land is planted with corn.

The land is among the best productive land in the area during good weather years and, with the advent of leveling and irrigation, will have a better guarantee of high production, which is the aim of Huff and Hubbard.

A FIVE FOOT deep ditching project is underway on the Huff-Hubbard farm north of Sikeston. William Huff points to the height of the water level that will run almost 4,000 feet in two directions to drain more than 250 acres of land.

Parma-Risco Merger Dropped

PARMA -- A election scheduled for Tuesday in Parma and Risco to vote on a proposed merger between the two school districts has been canceled by mutual agreement between the two boards of education.

After technicalities were discovered in the proposal, the two school boards asked the New Madrid county court to cancel the proposed election.

Under the proposed plan the two districts would have been merged into one large district with six new board members to be elected.

A tentative agreement had been reached whereby three of the new members would have come from each of the two old districts.

Also, a tentative agreement had been reached whereby each of the two districts would have retained grades one through six and a junior high school consisting of grades 7, 8 and 9. The senior high school would have been located in one of the two towns.

Soviet Ship Again Brushes U.S. Destroyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring warnings, a Soviet warship brushed against the U.S. Navy destroyer Walker early today in a second incident of confrontation between American and Russian ships on the high seas, the Pentagon said.

The Walker was scraped by another Soviet ship Wednesday.

Today's incident occurred in the same general area of the Sea of Japan, about 300 nautical miles west-southwest of the Japanese island of Hokaido.

"The incident occurred when the Soviet destroyer turned into the Walker, despite the latter's warnings," a Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon said the collision occurred at 1:33 a.m. EDT.

As in Wednesday's bumping together of destroyers, "there were no casualties and only light damage was reported," the Pentagon said.

The Soviet ship, not identified by name, was described as a destroyer of the Krupnyy class.

The Walker, along with two other destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet, have been undergoing antisubmarine warfare training maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

Wednesday, another Soviet destroyer — not the one involved in today's incident — made several close sweeps toward the American task group, coming as near as 50 feet on two occasions and finally bumping up against the Walker, causing minor damage.

The United States officially protested to the Soviet government over the first incident and was expected to file another complaint as a result of today's collision.

Sources view the Soviet actions as harassment.

The situation has taken on grave tones in view of the Vietnam war. Russia is a major supplier of war materials to North Vietnam.

State Department sources said the incident could indicate a further toughening of Moscow's attitude toward the United States as the Vietnam war intensifies.

But the sources added it could just be a case of an overzealous performance by Soviet sailors, similar to the nuisance-making they said the Soviets have been carrying out against American ships for some time.

Despite the U. S. protest, not all the details about the incident are available in Washington, officials said.

The Pentagon said the Soviet destroyer harassed the Walker and three other American ships for 90 minutes before the collision.

John M. Leddy, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, called in the ranking Soviet diplomat in Washington, Yuri N. Thchernakov, to deliver the U. S. protest. A written protest may be submitted later, officials said.

The USS Banner, a small, unarmed vessel engaged in technical research, and the Soviet vessel Anemometer collided nearly a year ago, also in the Sea of Japan, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

A spokesman said that collision resulted because of harassing tactics by the Anemometer, described as an intelligence-gathering trawler.

In 1965, the United States charged the Soviet Union with several instances of harassment of American warships.

Pemiscot County Prosecutor Dies

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Sharon Jesse Pate, 67, prosecuting attorney of Pemiscot county, died at 1:20 a.m. Wednesday in the Baptist Memorial hospital at Memphis from a heart ailment. He had been a heart patient for one month.

Born in Caruthersville Aug. 13, 1899, son of W. J. and Nina Pate, he attended the public schools here. He attended William Jewell College at Liberty, and graduated from Washington University at St. Louis with a law degree. He returned to Caruthersville to practice law.

On Oct. 17, 1929, he married the former Dorothy Lee Corbett, who survives.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge, a former member of the Lions Club and a member of the First Baptist church. A Democrat, he served as representative of Pemiscot county in the early 1930's and was serving his second term as prosecuting attorney.

Services were held today at 4:30 p.m. in the Eastwood Memorial Methodist church with the Rev. Marvin Niblack, pastor, and the Rev. Howard Ray, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating.

Burial was in Little Prairie cemetery, with LaForge Undertaking Co. in charge.

Annual Sessions Win Approval in House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed a constitutional change calling for annual sessions of the legislature. It now goes to the Senate.

The session would start each year the first week in January and, beginning in 1969, would continue until May 31 in odd numbered years and until May 15 in even numbered years.

The change also would allow bills remaining in either house in odd numbered years to be carried over to the next session.

If the Senate agrees with the House the issue would come before the voters in the November 1968 general election or at a special election called by the governor.

The constitutional amendment also would remove limitations on the number of legislative employes.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to increase the salaries of the Kansas City Police Department.

An increase in the salary of the director of the Water Resources Board was also approved. He is paid $10,000 a year now. His salary could be increased to not more than $15,000.

Also sent to the Senate were bills to:

Increase retirement benefits of state employes.

Let applicants for old age assistance hold life insurance with a cash value of up to $1,000 without endangering their eligibility.

Extend retirement benefits to non-teaching employes of junior college districts.

The Senate spent most of the morning on a bill to stiffen the state drivers' license law but had to lay it over with several amendments still pending.

The house steered clear of two perennial argument producing bills—to provide a veterans bonus and to permit parimutuel betting at state regulated horse racing tracks.

Both are oldtimers that have failed repeatedly in the past.

Wednesday the House, after four hours of battling, advanced a bill that would put reassessment of property in the hands of the State Tax Commission in counties where values are far out of line.

City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today that the police department has been instructed to enforce the curfew ordinance in all parts of the city.

The statement came after a complaint was received regarding enforcement of the ordinance, Miller explained.

Persons under 18 years old must be off the streets from 11 p.m. till 5 a.m. each night except Fridays and Saturdays, when the curfew begins at 12 p.m., the ordinance provides.

Phone Rates Hiked

Telephone rates in Sikeston and Morehouse will be increased by a 25 cent per month charge for all residence phones and $1 per month charge for all business phones effective July 21, John Donoho, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company manager, said today.

The last rate adjustment for Sikeston and Morehouse customers was made in 1957, Donoho noted. Prior to that increase, telephone rates were increased throughout the state in 1951.

The new rate increase is due to the growth in the number of telephones in the Sikeston and Morehouse calling scope, he noted.

Both billing centers had been in the bracket of 5,000-9,999 telephones in local calling scope.

The calling scope for both Sikeston and Morehouse now exceeds 10,100 telephones, he noted.

"Telephone rates in Missouri are based uniformly on the number of telephones which customers can call without paying a long distance charge," Donoho explained.

"Throughout the state, telephone exchanges of similar size have the same rates. Sikeston and Morehouse service has literally outgrown its present rate group," he said.

The bracket the towns will enter July 21, includes towns with local calling scopes of 10,000 to 16,999 telephones, Donoho said.

Based on past growth, another rate adjustment possibly may be expected in eight to 10 years, Donoho commented. But this depends on area growth, the economy and several other factors, he noted.

The local calling scope of Sikeston and Morehouse residents in the extended area service allows customers to call without long distance charges to Matthews, Canalou and distances from 12 to 15 miles south of Sikeston; north to Blodgett, Vanduser and Salcedo, and distances of about eight to 10 miles north of Sikeston; east to houses east of Bertrand, and west to about two miles east of Essex.

The new monthly residence phone rates, which will become effective July 21, are, one - party $4.50 two-party $3.75, and rural eight-party $3.25.

Business rates to take effect July 21 are: one - party $9.50; rural eight - party $5.25, coin (monthly guarantee) $7.80.

No increase is planned in the home extension rate of 90 cents, the business extension of $1.50 or the business coin extension rate of 90 cents per month.

The rates listed do not include the federal 10 per cent tax or the 3 per cent state tax.

The number of telephones in the local calling scope of Sikeston's customers has increased from 5,600 in 1957, to more than 10,100 today. Morehouse's calling scope has increased from 6,200 in 1958 to 10,100 today, Donoho said.

Cancer Drive Now $2,790

The Scott county chapter of the American Cancer Society, which began collecting funds in April and will close its drive in about 10 days, has collected $2,790, Wayne Woodard, county chairman said.

The amount collected exceeds last year's total by $75 and six communities have not yet reported.

The county goal is $3,100. Woodard urged persons who have not contributed to send donations to him or Dale Beaird, Sikeston chairman.

Beaird reported that about $1,600 of the amount collected was received in Sikeston. Businesses in Sikeston have not yet been contacted, he noted.

County president John Davis commended all workers on the progress of the drive. John Scarbrough is publicity chairman.

Sikeston to Host Parley For Housing Authorities

Representatives of 21 housing authorities in Southeast Missouri have been invited to attend a conference on development to be held May 23, at the Sikeston Housing Authority building, Franklin Avenue, Billy Hanna, director, said today.

C. K. Odor, executive director of the Housing Authority and Urban Renewal Agency in Columbia, will be guest speaker at the meeting. Odor is past president of the Missouri National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials.

Also attending the meeting are two representatives of the State Office of Regional Planning, Barry Lovelace and Robert Gunter.

Replies have been received from 12 of the housing authorities invited, Hanna said.

Development covers all necessary work that must be accomplished to bring public housing units into being, from the stage of site selection until the units are ready for occupancy, he explained.

A site for the 75 housing units for elderly persons in need approved for Sikeston has not been selected yet, Hanna noted.

Housing authorities invited to the conference are, Bernie, Bloomfield, Campbell, Cardwell, Caruthersville, Charleston, Clarkton, Dexter, Gideon, Hayti, Holcomb, Hornersville, Kennett, Malden, Poplar Bluff, Senath, Sikeston, Steele, Portageville, Illmo and West Plains.

Illmo has a housing authority board and has made application for 100 units. Presently, it has no units in operation.

Cape Girardeau and Benton also are exploring the possibilities of establishing housing authorities.

How many of you can remember before desegregation was forced on us?

Could that be the cause?

It was the beginning.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes scored again when the legislature delivered to him a bill authorizing construction of toll roads virtually intact.

Missouri should benefit from this legislation in two ways: Faster, more direct and more economical travel by Missourians from one Missouri city to another. Increased through traffic by out-of-state motorists and more spending by tourists in the state.

This is a large state. Most highways have been built between principal cities - especially through the center of the state east and west.

There is now no good, fast route from Southeast Missouri to Jefferson City or Kansas City. There is none from Kansas City to Northeast Missouri. The state needs good criss cross routes as well as a fast direct north-south thoroughfare. They are not provided by the regular highway network.

Many problems remain. Missouri must be able to sell the revenue bonds to build the toll roads at an interest rate it can afford to pay. A revival of tight money might send it out of reach.

There is a natural concern that if revenues aren't adequate to support toll roads, the regular highway system might suffer. The regular system needs a constantly increasing flow of revenue to construct new roads and maintain existing highways. It cannot be neglected without damaging the state's economy, endangering lives and property.

One of the most heartening aspects of the Hearnes' approach are the feasibility studies that will precede the building of any toll roads.

These studies should disclose whether there is enough need for a road to justify its construction.

The emphasis should be placed on total potential travel and not needs of Missourians alone. For example every Southeast Missouri resident would welcome a direct route to Jefferson City or Kansas City but the final determination should be based on total travel.

The needs of through travelers from out-of-state should not be ignored because their dollar is as good as the Missourian's.

This total need concept should not only determine whether the toll road is economically feasible but it should also be the deciding factor in the selection of the route.

The shortest distance across the state would be more appealing to through travelers although it might not be exactly what Missouri residents desire. The route selection should be based on total travel potential alone, not politics, not Missourian's preference alone or out-of-state traveler preference alone.

All decisions should be based on economic, non-political considerations.

If the toll road law becomes the political football of the governor and the state highway commission it will be the state and Missourians who will suffer in the last analysis.

Let's build toll roads that will be profitable because they are in great demand by all travelers.

Let's make routes through Missouri so inviting to out-of-state travelers that they will want to go through our state. Missouri now often is avoided in favor of highways in adjoining states.

THE CARROT IS A CROPPER

Before too many months go by Missourians will be voting on constitutional amendments that are now being debated and advanced by the current session of the General Assembly.

One of these measures deserves more than passing attention from voters because it points up a growing practice in state government that has been adopted part and parcel, from the sly old politicians in Washington. We are referring to the method of hanging the carrot out for all to see, with something less desirable hidden from general view. In this case, the carrot is the constitutional amendment calling for annual sessions of the General Assembly; the hidden part is a provision that would permit the legislature and not the voters to set a portion of the lawmaker's salary.

The manner in which the annual session amendment has now been written would require the voter to weigh not the merits of the proposed change but weigh, instead, which is the lesser evil.

This is wrong; it is, in our view even being dishonest with the voters.

The amendments to any constitution should be entities within themselves; they should deal with one subject and only one subject. If more amendments are needed, then they should be written and submitted as separate proposals.

This is not the first time the General Assembly has followed the unsavory federal legislative practice of tying lots of loose ends into one package. But it is done not for the sake of neatness but to fool the voter and entice him to accept one needed change while, at the same time, approving something less than needed.

The annual sessions amendment, as now written, calls for a change in the constitution that would also permit the legislature to set salary allowances. In addition, it calls for an increase in legislative employes, a subject that was submitted to the voters only last year.

All three subjects are presently wrapped into one neat amendment.

And the voters will have to decide whether they want annual sessions bad enough to overlook the other provisions.

The legislature is not playing fair with the voters and the legislature knows it. We hope the voters will know it too.

ON BEHALF OF THE SPEAKER

Although none has been raised in recent weeks, we should like to venture just one small voice of defense in behalf of James Godfrey, the first-term Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives. The second most influential man in state government has been having his troubles of late, trying to preserve some degree of decorum in a legislative chamber that traditionally is free and easy with its conduct.

Speaker Godfrey's critics have run the gamut with their charges; he is too lenient, he is too forceful, he is too dictatorial, he lets the members get away with something this side of murder.

Somewhere in between must be the truth.

As any first-termer must, the Speaker appears to be feeling his way, getting acquainted with an important and difficult office he has occupied for less than four months. The Speaker appears to be dealing, too often, with members of the majority party who sometimes feel they are "rubber stamps" for the Democratic leadership and a smaller but more vocal minority party that has nothing to lose from some occasional irresponsible behavior.

What the Speaker's critics have not said, however, is that during the four months of the current legislature, it has been the House and not the Senate that has shown itself to be responsive to the public's needs and responsive to its obligations to meet these needs. During this session it has been the Senate that has for the most part, been willing to let the lower chamber repair its irresponsible behavior, and the House has performed this duty in the manner the voters expect.

Part of the responsibility, if not much of it, can be traced to the Speaker, who obviously has tried to strike a happy balance between a dictator with a gavel and a too-lenient observer of House proceedings. Perhaps Speaker Godfrey's critics should examine the overall record of the House before throwing out harsh reprimands that are of second importance to a first-rate legislative record.

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has made considerable progress lately in learning the languages of such birds as the crow and such beasties as the dolphin.

What it should set out to decipher next is the language of women. That would really do civilization a favor.

However, it is unlikely that science will ever accomplish this feat. Women don't want anyone to solve their language. It is the real secret of the legendary mystery of their sex.

There is a fundamental and inescapable difference in the employment of language by man and woman.

A man uses language to say what's on his mind. To a woman, this is incredibly naive. She uses language to say what isn't on her mind.

Except when she loses her temper and thereby reveals herself inadvertently, a woman opens her mouth only to plead the 5th Amendment. Her conversation is a camouflage to protect herself and her motives.

Nothing about his wife puzzles a new husband more than her enigmatic use of language. The marriage really begins to succeed only when he begins dimly to perceive that she rarely says what she means and rarely means what she says.

Once that happens he can usually manage to get along with her very well.

He knows that when she asks him if he feels chilly she really means, "Go close the window, Dopey; I'm cold."

He knows that when she asks, "Do you care for any more meat?" what she really means is, "Pass the platter, Buster; can't you see I'm starving?"

He knows that when she says, "It's so nice out, shall we walk?" what she really means is, "My feet have been hurting for hours—so go call a taxi, Big Stupid."

Even a veteran husband, no matter how accustomed he gets to a wife's upside down use of language, can't quite adjust himself to her use of the words "never" and "always."

For example, if he hasn't taken her out for a week, she tells him, "You never take me out anymore." If he forgets an anniversary once, she tells him forever after, "You never remember our anniversary."

A situation that befell a friend of mine may serve to illustrate the wifely use of the word "always."

In 1935, as he was turning at an intersection, another car brushed against his and dented his fender.

"For 32 years since then," he told me mournfully, "every time we have approached that intersection my wife has grabbed me by the sleeve and said, 'Be careful. Remember, you always have an accident here."

There are some more things I could tell you about how wives use language. But why should I? In this field every husband has to learn how to interpret his own babbling brook.

A young man rushed into a bar and asked the bartender: "How do you stop hiccups?"

The bartender reached down quickly, slapped him across the face with a wet rag. The guy was furious.

"But you don't have hiccups anymore, do you?" asked the bartender.

"I never did. My girl friend out in the car's got em!"

Last year, for the first time in more than a decade, the general unemployment rate in the country averaged below 4%. President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers regards this as "essentially full employment." The Council states its expectation that unemployment will remain at the same low level in 1967, and by implication at least, rejects the notion that we should strive for even lower unemployment rates.

Mr. Walter Reuther has roundly criticized the Council for what he calls "this attitude of complacent self - satisfaction." In his view, unemployment of 4% is much too high and national economic policy must be directed toward reducing it.

In this kind of controversy there is an element that must puzzle the general public. Just how do we decide whether 4% -- or any other figure -- is the "right" level of unemployment in our kind of society?

Clearly the reduction of unemployment to zero is an impossible and undesirable objective. As long as people are free to change their employment, there will be a certain number of them between jobs at any time. And the operation of a dynamic economy requires that new and expanding enterprises have some sources of available manpower to draw on.

Gut ruling out zero as the unemployment objective still leaves us with the question: Should it be 3%, 4%, 5% -- or what? Mr. Reuther's chief statistical argument for an objective substantially below 4% is the fact that lower unemployment rates have prevailed in practically all the other industrial countries of the world.

Other countries collect their unemployment figures by methods different from those used in the U.S. But even when adjustments are made for these technical differences, it appears to be a fact that unemployment rates in such other countries as Britain, France, Germany and Japan have been well below 4% in recent years.

But this still doesn't settle the question of the proper unemployment objective in the U.S. There are reasons for expecting a somewhat higher unemployment rate here. We have a less homogeneous labor force than other countries -- the range of abilities, habits, attitudes, etc., is wider here than elsewhere. And our population is accustomed to moving about more than the people in other countries -- both geographically and occupationally. Our business enterprises are subject to more sudden changes in fortune than those in other lands. Employment in any given establishment is likely to vary more here, since we prefer competition to the "live and let live" philosophy. Consumer tastes seem to change more frequently and more eratically than in other parts of the world. New products are introduced more frequently here with unpredictable results for particular businesses.

All these factors are an indication of the greater dynamism of the American economy. An economy with these characteristics needs more elbow-room than the more stable economies of other countries. And a somewhat higher level of unemployment is an inescapable aspect of this greater elbow-room. It is a sign of freedom, growth, and adaptability to a changing world.

So Mr. Reuther's comparison of U.S. unemployment rates with those of other countries doesn't prove that 4% is too high as our national objective. No one should be dogmatic in naming some one number as the proper unemployment goal for all time. All we can say is that, under present circumstances, an attempt to reduce unemployment well below the rate which prevailed in 1966 would pose rather serious threats to price stability and economic efficiency.

BOOM DAYS FOR KNOW-HOWS

The day of the rugged business individualist, the man who runs his company like a tight ship with himself as all-powerful captain, is ending in America. Power is passing from the individual corporate president or chairman of the board to the expert groups further down in his firm, observes famed Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith.

"Never again will the average, informed person know the name of the current head of Ford or Standard Oil," he says. "The latter, like all others, will have to produce his driving license when paying by check."

Where once the names of the great bankers - Cooke, Gould, Morgan, Mellon - were part of the American folklore, today there are few bankers whose names are known outside the financial community. Fame today requires that a financier "collect modern art, have Japanese wrestlers perform in the lobby, or stage Ping-Pong contests in the street."

The control of business enterprises has become collegial, says Galbraith. It is based on expert knowledge much as earlier generations of power were based on land or capital.

Power lies with the individuals who possess knowledge, not connections with the finncial community. If their knowledge is particular and strategic, their power becomes very great - not as individuals, however, but as part of the decision - making group.

There is a popular tendency to think of groups or committees as inefficient. Not so, says the economist.

"Highly paid men, when sitting around a table as a committee, are not necessarily wasting more time in the aggregate than each would waste all by himself."

It would be nice to think that this is as true in Washington as in Wall Street.

"Not only that," said the old gentleman, "but you knocked 40 years too late."

FOOT-DEEP IN FLIES

In one summer session, from April to August, the descendants of one pair of houseflies, if all lived and reproduced normally, could total 197 quintillion, the Catholic Digest states. That is enough to cover the surface of the entire earth to a depth of more than one foot.

Read an article written by a man who had spent some time in Vietnam. He is of the opinion we are in World War No. 3 now. Come to think of it that is very possible. The incident may keep on expanding as it has in the past and Asians keep feeding men just as our side can take care of them until our side sees they have been led into a trap. Then in desperation use nuclear military power in a scorched earth policy. Guess we all know what that will call for.

H. L. Hunt Says

NOT A PARTISAN PLAN

A current issue of the utmost importance is the need for reform of the Electoral College System of choosing the President of the United States. This is a non-partisan issue, concerning Democrats, Republicans and independents alike, and a non-partisan plan has been put forward to meet it.

This is the Congressional District Reform Plan - rapidly coming to be known by the simplified title of CONDIRP. The plan provides for the people to choose by ballot one presidential elector from their congressional district and two electors at large from the entire state. Each candidate for President and Vice President would then be represented by one or more local citizens seeking the post of elector in their names.

The electors would be required, in advance of election day, to pledge their votes for the candidates of their choice for President and Vice President. They then would be bound to cast their votes for these avowed candidates.

CONDIRP would preserve the equal power of each individual's vote no matter where the voter lives. That is the big difference from the present system. Today the party whose candidates receive the majority of votes in a state is awarded all the electoral votes held by that state. This is the case even should one candidate receive no more than 100 votes, or five votes or even one vote less than his opponent.

The present system gives too much power to political machines operating in the mid-city sections of our metropolitan areas. CONDIRP proposes to correct this imbalance so urgently needed. HLH.

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., for 32 years considered the no. 1 champion on labor, last week got a message from the AFL-CIO, relayed through his assistant, Bill Berg, calling Morse a "strikebreaker".

"We'll have to re-assess our support given you in the past," was the message.

"I'm not going to be blackmailed on legislation," was the reply Morse sent back. "Tell them to go to hell."

The AFL-CIO message was prompted by the fact that Morse introduced the President's bill to mediate the current railroad - labor dispute, giving both sides 90 days to come to terms.

"I had much to do with drafting that bill," says Morse very frankly. "Labor is attacking it as compulsory arbitration, but if people read it they'll find that it's not compulsory arbitration, it's extended collective bargaining and mediation leading to finality."

The bill calls for 30 days in which a mediation panel will mediate between both sides; a second 30 days in which the board writes its report and sends it to congress; a third 30 - day period in which the two sides are given a chance to reach an agreement.

If they do not reach an agreement within the above 90 days, then, on the 91st day, the report becomes final; and the railroads are forced to operate under the terms of the report, while railroad labor is forced to accept those terms up to not more than two years.

MORSE'S LONG RECORD

Morse served as chairman of the war labor board during World War II. He is probably the no. 1 labor mediation expert in the United States. In the past 32 years he has mediated more labor disputes than any other man in the country, including the recent airplane mechanics strike, the Longshoremen's strike, a previous rail strike, and the steel strike.

Morse points out that compulsory arbitration is a 100 per cent judicial process, in which the arbiter sits in the same role as a judge, weighing the preponderance of evidence. If either side fails to make a case under the preponderance of the evidence, that side loses.

In contrast, the proposed law to settle the current railroad dispute, Morse points out, provides that the panel of mediators must be bound by the framework of the proposals by each party.

"The right to strike in a national emergency," says the senator from Oregon, "is a relative right. The public has a superior right -- namely, the right to be protected in time of war. I am not for the war in Vietnam. I have been against it. Nevertheless the war is taking place, and men are dying in it. They have a right to have supplies; and no union has a right to upset the shipment of those supplies."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., is proposing the seizure of the railroads as a settlement. Other senators have various other proposals. It will be a long and bitter debate. But Morse says he will stand firm that "the American people have a right to be protected, even if I am called a strikebreaker."

LBJ AND HARRY TRUMAN

Those who deal with LBJ from day to day are sometimes flabbergasted at the pains to which he will go to do little things for people.

On Harry Truman's recent 83rd birthday, Wilbur Cohen, deputy secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, recalled how two years earlier, when the first medicare bill was to be signed, he had received a call from the White House. LBJ himself was on the phone.

"How many people would we have to take to Kansas City to sign this bill down in Harry Truman's library?" he asked.

Cohen replied that there were about 300 people involved in helping to pass the medicare bill, all of whom should be invited to participate in the final ceremony. The list included George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, and Andy Biemiller, top AFL-CIO lobbyist on Capitol Hill, both of whom had swung a lot of votes for medicare. And there were a lot of other labor leaders, doctors, senators, congressmen and friends of the elderly.

"We've got only two planes," the President said. "And they'll hold about 100."

That seemed to veto having the bill signed in Kansas City.

But Secretary Cohen's phone rang again.

"Wilbur," said the President, "I want you to see what you can do about shaving that list down. Harry Truman was the man who first introduced the medicare bill. He worked hard for it when the going was tough. He may not be with us too much longer. We ought to try to sign this bill down there where he can participate. You come over here, Wilbur, and see what you can do about the list."

Wilbur Cohen went over to the White House, helped arrange private transportation for some of the distinguished guests. The bill was signed in Independence, Mo., with Harry Truman happily looking on.

HIRING SUMMER STUDENTS

A lot of companies all over the USA are doing their best to hire students for the summer under the President's youth opportunity campaign.

They range from the Northern Virginia Board of Realtors, which has placed students in branch offices of the Virginia Employment Commission to help fellow students find jobs, to American Foresight, Inc., of Philadelphia, which hires all college students who apply. These students sell cookware for eleven weeks during the summer, with guaranteed income of $500 for the season. Some students have earned as much as $4,000 in one summer. American Foresight also offers college scholarships to its summer employees.

Rockefeller's Labor-Political Machine Moving West

NEW YORK - The other Saturday night was hardly the loneliest night in the week for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his lady, Happy. For a non-candidate, Mr. Rockefeller did some mighty swift hotel-hopping and banquet bantering - and all before labor audiences.

To the politically sophisticated who raced in his wake, there no longer was any doubt of either his drive for the Republican presidential nomination or the strategic pattern of his campaign. The "Eastern establishment", now reaching through and past Pennsylvania, was proving that it could successfully crack the Democrats' big city vote - especially on the labor front - even if Lyndon Johnson does stand for re-election.

On that Saturday night, April 29, the governor and his lady first made an early appearance at an overcrowded banquet honoring AFL-CIO vice-president David Sullivan, leader of the politically influential Building Service Employes International Union.

On the dais with the governor were the crusading Cardinal Spellman, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, his new young Assistant Secretary Tom Donahue, virtually all the powers of Eastern labor - and a message from the President of the U.S. They had come to honor Sullivan - a labor leader's labor leader who stays out of the headlines but whose influence in the highest labor circles is stronger than even the closest observers know.

Sullivan has just been singularly honored. Pope Paul IV has named him knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory - a distinction never before bestowed on an American labor leader. It is the highest church honor which can be given to a layman.

Gov. Rockefeller was cheered more loudly than any but the guest of honor. That came as he was introduced. A roar went up again when he apologized for leaving because he had to go to a passover seder. Then he raced from the Commodore Hotel to the Waldorf. There he joined in the traditional feast with rabbis and labor leaders who had come at the invitation of Histadrut, the Israeli labor federation.

Once more the cheers hit what passes for rafters in the grand ballroom as he introduced Happy, spoke of his delight with the special soups and food and apologized for coming late because he had just helped Dave Sullivan celebrate at the Catholic gathering.

This was not the Rockefeller of yesteryear. The speech comes smoothly and when he is amongst labor leaders, he almost always knows he is amongst friends.

He comes to their dinners. They go to his. No one need conjecture any longer over the loyalties of hundreds of labor leaders. The New York Republican machine will prove this on June 8 at the big G.O.P. state dinner to which will come Republican leaders from many states.

And sitting amongst them will be officials of at least 60 unions - most of them with built-in political machinery. At no less than $150 a plate. This means they are willingly helping the party raise funds for a campaign - and here there really are no campaigns to speak of between now and 1968.

New York is not the only arena in which the Republican's Eastern establishment has moved into Democratic territory. Not too long ago the militant Pennsylvania AFL-CIO state labor federation ran its eighth constitutional convention. Republican Gov. Raymond Shafer, considered here a "moderate conservative" and an ally of Nelson Rockefeller, spoke and was well received.

With him was his Secretary of Labor and Industry - the state's second largest department. William Hart is on leave of absence from his regional directorship of District 19, United Steelworkers of America.

The entente across the East is built on the theory that there are forces inside labor with which the Republicans can work - and win - just as Mr. Rockefeller's New York county chairman Vince Albano, a banker, proved when he took Manhattan from the Democrats for the first time in history.

None of this indicates an inclination to battle the Western and Southwestern establishments inside the Republican party. Rockefeller knows he can't win or place without it. And his new found ally, former vice-presidential candidate William Miller, is trying to make the twain meet. He was on such a mission in Colorado Springs the other day.

The political arithmetic is against Gov. Rockefeller. But he is certainly trying to prove that it's the old math.

THE PERFECT ASSIST

I thought my heart would break the day after we took our four-year-old physically and mentally handicapped daughters to an institution. The morning dragged by. Every glimpse of a familiar object connnected with Helen's care brought on a fresh siege of weeping. No one called, no neighbor stopped in.

After lunch I stepped out onto the porch to collect the mail. There, on the step, lay seven huge pink peonies. As I straightended up, my arms full of blooms, I looked across the street at two small peony bushes, planted the fall before by my newest neighbor. They were stripped, their beauty given in sympathy to me. My sorrow began its long healing as I turned back into the house.

Meat Prices Up This Week

NEW YORK AP - Meat prices jumped this week. It may be a long summer before consumers see price tags as low as those last winter.

Prices on the live cattle and hog markets the past two weeks have soared. Midwestern farmers, busy with spring chores, have been shipping smaller supplies to market.

A New York supermarket chain raised pork chop prices 10 cents a pound this week. Pork cuts are generally 2 cents a pound higher on the West Coast.

Beef prices are up 1 to 3 cents a pound along the West Coast. Rib roasts may be on special in the Midwest.

Chicken prices are down 14 cents a pound in the New York area. Broilers, fryers and turkeys may be featured in the Northeast, Midwest and Southwest.

Egg prices are up 1 cent a dozen in San Francisco and Portland, Ore., this week, and medium-sized eggs are 2 cents higher at a major chain in the New York area. But prices still are low, and eggs are being promoted heavily at many stores.

Some canners have raised the price of orange juice, in the wake of the drought in Florida.

April was a washout in California. Tomato plantings had to be put off, and the combination of rains, frost and the worst hail damage in recent years cut the raisin crop an estimated 10 to 20 per cent. Apricots look poor, peaches are two weeks late, and prunes suffered some damage.

One of the sorority houses at the southwest college that I attended was noted, more than anything else, for its overly prudish housemother, Miss Virginia Byron. She enforced curfew regulations like an old army sergeant, gave constant moral lectures, and when it came to her attention that the large oleander bushes in front of the sorority were being used by the young daters for long, amorous good-night kisses, she had the bushes all chopped down.

This latter action proved too much for one prankish male student. In the dead of night he placed a large hand-lettered sign on the now barren lawn in front of the sorority house. It read, simply: Miss Virginia Byron's Birth Control Center.

Bulldogs End '67 Campaign With 4-1 Win Over CapeND

Sikeston's Bulldogs closed out their 1967 baseball campaign by edging Cape Notre Dame 4-1 at VFW stadium yesterday afternoon.

Senior Rudy Manley, playing his last game in a Sikeston high uniform, collected the victory by pitching a two hitter. He struck out 12 and walked five.

It was an all - senior lineup except for Bruce Farris and Mike Garner, and it was the seniors who collected the blows for the Dogs.

Senior Terry Scudder celebrated his last day in a Sikeston high uniform by blasting a home run over the left field fence and followed with a triple before driving the left fielder back to the fence for an out.

Scudder's home run was one of the longest ever hit out of VFW stadium, and his triple, hit to center, was one of the longest clouts hit to that part of the field.

Sikeston trailed after the Notre Dame top of the second inning as Notre Dame scored on one hit, an error and a stolen base. Both teams went scoreless in the first.

Greg Flaker started on the mound for the visiting Bulldogs. Sikeston threatened to score in the first inning, and Scudder tied the score in the second inning with one swing of the bat after the first batter and struck out.

The Dogs threatened to score again in the second as Matthews, who walked after Scudder's home, advanced to third on a base hit by Dan Spears and a fielder's choice by Larry Lancaster, who forced Spears at second base for the second out. The inning ended as Greg Bailey grounded out to the second baseman.

Manley had little trouble in his next five innings of hurling as he checked the visitors on one hit, that coming in the sixth inning.

Sikeston's final runs came in the third innings when senior Wayne Limbaugh reached first on an error. Mike Garner followed with a base hit moving Limbaugh to second.

Bruce Farris advanced Limbaugh to third with a base hit as Garner was picked off at second. Manley collected an RBI with a hit, and Scudder followed with his second hit of the afternoon, a triple to the center field wall for two RBI's and a Sikeston lead of 4-1.

The following seniors played their last game for SHS: Greg Bailey, Terry Scudder, Rudy Manley, Dan Spears, Wayne Limbaugh, Steve Matthews and Larry Lancaster.

Four were starters in all 11 Bulldog games. Sikeston ended the season with a 9-2 won-loss mark.

Ray Thorpe On Verge Of Equalling Two MU Records

COLUMBIA - Ray Thorpe, the Big Eight's hottest hitter, is on the verge of equalling two school records as Missouri's baseball team tangles with Iowa State at Ames this weekend.

With six games left, the 5-ft. 7 1/2 Tiger outfielder can tie or surpass the one-season highs of triples (5) and stolen bases (16). Thorpe now has four triples and 15 steals. His front-running mark in the conference bat race is .429.

Runnerup Missouri (9-6) lags 2 1/2 games behind Oklahoma State (10-2), with the Cowboys in a highly tenable spot. M.U. simply has to keep winning... and hoping...that Colorado can chop into the Pokes' sizable bulge at Boulder this weekend.

Iowa State (7-8) though, has won five of its last six games and is a tough hurdle for Missouri at Ames. Seldom does any visiting club sweep a Big Eight series - and Missouri now can't afford another defeat.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons will pitch Mike McFarland (3-1) in the Friday opener - and Jerry Hurt (6-0) and Kelly Whitaker (2-1) on Saturday. Hurt, a junior, owns the best earned run average at 1.40.

Missouri's lineup now has stabilized to the point that the Tigers played without error in three one-run victories over Oklahoma. Del Blunk's shift from centerfield to shortstop has firmed up the defense.

Baseball Cuts

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitchers hurling shutout baseball and veteran hitters batting over .300 were among the cut-down casualties, but the biggest sparks may fly from the optioning of a rookie hitting .194.

He is first baseman Mike Epstein, touted as a future superstar, optioned by Baltimore to their Rochester farm club before Wednesday night's major league deadline to reach the 25-player limit.

"Mike said he was very disappointed and might not report to Rochester," said Oriole Manager Hank Bauer.

Epstein, 24, the minor league Player of the Year at Rochester last season, declined comment after meeting with Bauer and Harry Dalton, Baltimore director of player personnel.

"I pointed out the opportunities to him," Dalton said, "but it's his career and it's his decision."

Among those once highly publicized veterans to get pink slips were Ralph Terry, Bill Monbouquette, Gordy Coleman, Manny Jimenez and Bob Buhl.

Atlanta hospitalized ace right-hander Tony Cloninger, 1-1, for an indefinite period. The former 20-game winner, who has not pitched since April 26 because of a pulled back muscle and a virus infection, is suffering from an eye problem.

The Los Angeles Dodgers traded infilder John Werhas to the California Angels for outfielder Len Gabrielson and the New York Mets purchased third baseman Ed Charles from Kansas City for $60,000 and minor league outfielder Larry Elliot. The Mets also bought utility infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher John Miller from Baltimore.

Epstein was unable to beat out Boog Powell at first base with the Orioles and Curt Blefary in the outfield, and Baltimore was unable to trade him when other teams would not meet its price. He had only two singles in 13 at bats.

"If he fails to report," Dalton said, "He'll be placed on the inactive list."

Coleman, 32, a first baseman, was optioned to Buffalo after seven years with Cincinnati. He helped the Reds to the pennant in 1961 when he hit .287, had 26 homers and 87 runs batted in.

Jimenez, 28, a sensation with Kansas City in 1962 when he led the league part of the season, was returned to the minors by Pittsburgh despite his homer and double in six at-bats.

Championship Of Western Division Of OVC To Murray

MURRAY, Ky. -- The Murray State baseball team, aided by an Austin Peay win over Middle Tennessee, is the champion of the Western Division of the Ohio Valley Conference with a 9-1 record.

A doubleheader with Middle Tennessee, scheduled for Murray last Saturday, was rained out and may not be rescheduled since its results would not affect conference standings.

Going into a game with Southeast Missouri today the Racers were 19-5 for the season. They will conclude their regular season with a game at Lambuth College Monday. The playoff for the OVC championship will be May 19 and 20 at the home field of the Eastern Division winner.

Eastern Kentucky is currently in the lead in the Eastern Division with a 4-3 record. Morehead and East Tennessee are tied for second place at 5-5 and Tennessee Tech is 3-4. Eastern has a doubleheader scheduled with East Tennessee Saturday, a doubleheader with Tennessee Tech Monday, and a single game with Tech Tuesday. Eastern is defending OVC champion. The Colonels beat Murray two games to one in last year's playoff.

Ward leads in RBI's with 23. Ryan has 21 and Wally Andzel 17.

Don Lee has won 7 and lost 1 to head the pitching staff. Rodney Pryer is 4-0, and Davie Gourieux 4-2.

The Racers are batting .278 as a team to their opponent's .196 and fielding .965 to their opponents' .929.

STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATTING - Joe Torre, Braves, rapped three home runs in a doubleheader. His two shots in the second game led Atlanta to a 7-2 victory over Philadelphia. He also homered in the opener won by the Phillies 4-3.

PITCHING -- Tommy John, White Sox, scattered six hits and went the route in a 13-1 romp over the defending world champion Baltimore Orioles.

Netmen End Season Over .500 Mark

By Charles Stamp

The Sikeston Bulldog tennis team finished its 1967 campaign last Friday in the district match at Cape Girardeau. The boys posted a record of five wins against four losses under the coaching of Earl Richmond.

The netmen lost their first two matches to Caruthersville and Kennett, but bounced back with a decisive victory against the Poplar Bluff Mules.

Bret Baker, District singles champion, helped Kennett to defeat the Dogs for the third loss. The Bulldogs then took revenge on the Tigers of Caruthersville with a 5-3 victory.

The final defeat of the year went to the Cape Central Tigers at Sikeston. The netmen then went on to win their last three matches. The Dogs downed Chaffee, Cape Central and Poplar Bluff.

In the SEMO district competition, Bill Dickerson and Hank Lippert advanced to the quarterfinals, and the doubles team of Wythe Miller and Bob McCord went into the semi-finals. Both lost to the tourney champions from Bonne Terre.

In Sikeston singles competition throughout the year, junior Wythe Miller started in the number one position in the majority of the meets. Wythe had trouble getting started and finished with three wins against six losses.

Junior Bob McCord was the number two man. McCord compiled a record of four wins and five defeats.

Hank Lippert and Bill Dickerson both finished over the .500 mark with five wins and four defeats. Brad Crumpecker wound up with three wins and three losses, and Ron Hill finished with four wins against one loss.

In the doubles bracket, Miller and McCord were 3-6, Lippert and Dickerson 4-4, and Crumpecker and Hill 2-1 record.

Coach Richmond should have a fine team next year with the return of Miller, McCord, Crumpecker and some fine looking sophomores.

Oran Wins District

STE. GENEVIEVE -- Oran pushed across five runs in the seventh inning for a 6-5 victory over Rolla in the state baseball playoffs last night.

Mike Lewis, Rolla hurler, who had pitched three straight shutouts going into the ballgame, was breezing along with a 5-1 lead and a four hitter until the seventh inning.

Lewis had little trouble collecting two outs and was one away from victory when Garon Hanley blasted a double, driving in a run. Lewis walked the next four batters, walking in two runs and held a 5-4 lead when reliefer Larry Riden was called in.

Riden gave up a single to Doug Hanley for two RBI's and the district victory. Hanley had a 2-2 count on Hanley, who hit the next pitch to right for his single.

Tim Halter was the winning pitcher with a five hitter. He collected 15 strikeouts.

Lewis gave up six hits and collected six strikeouts.

Garon Hanley was the Eagles leading hitter for the night, collecting two doubles in three times at bat.

Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Six-year-old Jimmy was telling his mother all about his new teacher. "She's mean, but at least she's fair," he remarked.

"How's that?" asked his mother.

"She's mean to everyone," the boy replied.

Social Security Pay Increases

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A total of $513,792,000 in social security benefits was paid to residents of Missouri last year, up 9 per cent from the year before.

At the end of 1966, 4,352 men, women, and children in Scott county were receiving benefits at a monthly rate of $58.00, Clifford W. Forsee, social security district manager, reported today.

Of these, 3,044 were older people, he said, receiving benefits as retired workers, the wives and husbands of retired workers and as the surviving widows or aged dependent parents of workers who have died.

"But social security is not just for older people," Forsee pointed out, adding that 768 young widows and children in Scott county were receiving benefits monthly amounting to $37,667. at the end of December, and 540 disabled workers and dependents were receiving benefits at a monthly rate of $56.00.

"Practically every young family in Scott county has survivors protection under social security that can be worth $75,000 or more, and equally valuable disability insurance protection.

Monthly payments to the family of a worker who dies, leaving two or more children, can range from $66 to $368 a month, depending on the worker's average earnings under social security.

Social security survivors benefits, Forsee said, can be paid to the family of a young man who has worked and paid social security contributions for as little as 1 1-2 years during the three years before his death.

Benefits to the mother and children continue until the youngest child reaches 18, or indefinitely, if the child has a disability which began before his 18th birthday and makes it impossible for him to work and become self-supporting. Under a change in the law enacted in 1965, a child's benefits can be continued up until age 22 if he or she continues in school.

Reports were given by the dues and membership committee. Bob Robins of the Junior Chamber of Commerce reported on the progress of the new swimming pool.

MOBILE SOCIETY

Over 35 million Americans move each year. About six million move out of state; another six million cross county lines.

Alfalfa Weevils Spread in State

COLUMBIA -- Alfalfa weevils have been found in 11 additional counties as they continue to move north and westward in the state, Gene Munson, survey entomologist for the University of Missouri extension division, reports.

The insect, which can destroy an alfalfa crop, was found in Boone, Howard, Cooper, Moniteau, Morgan, Dent, Laclede, Dallas, Webster, McDonald, and Newton counties.

The pest was first discovered in Southeast Missouri in 1964 and is now established in 61 counties of the state.

Now that it has been found in McDonald and Newton counties the alfalfa weevil has traveled across the state to the Oklahoma and Kansas Lines.

All new infestations were very light, except for Laclede county, Munson reported. The alfalfa weevil larvae are causing some damage to fields in Laclede county.

Normally damage of economic importance can be expected two to three years after the first insect is found in a county, he said.

Both adult weevils and larvae are causing damage in the southeastern counties. However cool temperatures have slowed the development of the insects, Munson said.

In the heavily infested areas, early harvesting can produce higher quality hay with less weevil damage. In these areas it will be important to spray the stubble following the first cutting to enable the new growth to start without weevil injury, he reported.

Information on spray applications for control can be obtained at local university extension centers.

A new publication which describes the insect and its control is available at the extension centers.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The remaining weeks of school will be busy for all: students, teachers, all school employees, and we are sure that parents are equally busy in seeing that their children meet schedules, make all commitments, participate in the many academic and extra-curricular affairs relating to the close of school.

It is especially important that all students attend regularly, that they complete all assignments and have their work done in order that they may receive the best marks and otherwise profit from their schooling.

We list just a few of the many activities on the calendar for this month:

May 11 - Top Ten Per Cent Banquet, Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 12 -- First Grade Pre-Enrollment, 8:00 to 4:30 P.M., all elementary schools; Open House at Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 15 -- Open House -- Senior High, 6:30 P.M.; Pop band concert following Open House.

May 16 -- Drama Club production at Middle School, 8:00 P.M.; Open House at Matthews School, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 17 -- Honors Assembly, Senior High, 2:30; Open House, Southwest and Lincoln, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 18 -- Open House, Lee Hunter and Airport, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.; Seventh and Eighth Grade Band Concert, 7:30 P.M., Middle School.

Forty - two adult trainees who have graduated from the Manpower Development Training Act class in automatic heating and refrigeration have been employed. At least two were employed in supervisory positions, one at a beginning salary at $7300 a year.

Manpower Director, Bill Sikes, reports that seven who completed training in upholstery have been employed. This constitutes 100 per cent employment for these two groups.

We believe that this is a fairly good illustration that through the use of tax funds, federal in this case, the unskilled and unemployed, can with proper training become job holders and consequently, tax payers. As a tax payer the worker will in a comparatively short time repay to the government the cost of training and thereafter his tax contribution can help to support those essential services which he and his fellow citizens will enjoy. Without this training it is probable that many of these previously unskilled individuals would have been supported by some form of welfare or dole.

More important even than the foregoing, is the fact that the individual becomes a producer, gains the self-confidence of holding a job and thus supports himself and his family.

We believe that the tax payer gets the highest return in the "War on Poverty", from education. Education is about the only one of these programs in which the benefits will last and where the cause of low - income, or no income, can be permanently removed.

The ability to perform a service for the employer is a necessity for getting and holding almost any kind of job. It should be remembered that an employer must get value received from the employee if he is to stay in business, whether in private or public enterprise. Another factor in employment is the willingness of the employee to work. The mere fact that a person needs a job is of little or no concern to the employer. The employer is looking for someone who can fill his need, who can perform and who is willing.

Employment is a two way street. An employer has a responsibility to pay a decent wage and the worker has a responsibility to earn what he makes.

This school system provides almost unlimited opportunity for job training for youth and adults who have no salable skills. Yet many refuse to put out the effort to learn a skill or how to perform in a job. These are the ones who complain the loudest about unemployment.

We know of very few individuals who are skilled and who are willing to work, who cannot find employment. In fact we have calls every week from employers who are looking for capable people. They are usually not concerned about race, religion or sex of the individual, they merely want people who can and will perform in a job.

We cite this as an example that some people really do not want to work: We recently employed one of our youngsters whom we thought needed the money, to work at a job which he could have done, at a wage of $1.25 per hour. We think this is pretty good for a high school student. However, this individual, who is physically fit, quit this job and complained he couldn't make enough because he had to pay cab fare to and from his home. We suspect that walking the relatively short distance involved would not have hurt this individual.

The point we are trying to make is that the mere desire for a job is not enough. The employee must be willing and able to earn what he is paid. We are in a position to train both youth and adults for jobs. Our employment rate for those who have been trained to work has been exceptionally high, however, the responsibility is still that of the individual who wants a job.

Recommend Steve Woods for Waiver-of-Fees

ROLLA - Steve Wayne Woods, 923 Hawthorne, Sikeston, has been recommended to receive a curators freshman waiver-of-fees at the Univeristy of Missouri at Rolla for the 1967-68 school year.

The curators freshman waiver-of-fees are made to qualified graduates of accredited Missouri high schools who rank in the top quarter of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile on standardized college aptitude tests.

Recipients are now high school seniors who have been accepted as freshmen at the University of Missouri at Rolla following the completion of their high school work. They will major in one of the degree areas offered in science, engineering, humanities or social studies on the Rolla campus.

Stoddard Health Center Planned

BLOOMFIELD -- Stoddard county community action agency coordinators, the county nurse and aides met with Wayne French to make plans for the county home health center at the new city hall.

French is chairman of the Stoddard county CAA board. A room at the city hall has been donated for the health center.

The home health aide center is funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity under the administration of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville.

Training will start immediately for the aides, who will be trained by the county nurse, Mrs. Gaines. Eight aides will be working out of the four CAA centers located at Dexter, Advance, Bell City and Gray Ridge.

The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Purpose of the program is to give home care to those who cannot help themselves and to see that they are made more comfortable by the home aides' visits.

Referrals will be made through the neighborhood service centers and the health office.

Bill Claire, DAEOC director, was present at the meeting to assist with the program's planning.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for our homes and the high privilege of living the gospel there. Guide us that we become more like the Master, in whose name we pray. Amen.

W. S. Way has sold his interest in the Missouri Land and Loan Co. He hasn't decided just what line of business he will follow as yet.

Dr. A. A. Mayfield and Dr. R. E. Wylie bought 640 acres of reclaimed land last week from Sikes Bros. The tract is about five miles from Malden on the Frisco and all but 100 acres are in cultivation.

J. H. Baugher of this city has been awarded the contract for J. H. Stubbs' new home, for which the Laubis Architectural Co., executed the plans.

It was thoughtful of Mr. and Mrs. Penn Parsons in sending two large cakes to the Sikeston boys in camp at Fort Riley. You must know these boys thoughts wandered back to home and mother when these goodies arrived. The big hearts of this couple will not be forgotten by Frank Van Horne, Ernest Arterburn and Harry Blanton for many a day.

When the high waters were upon us, with levees breaking, homes and livestock lost, Southeast Missouri thought she was hard hit, but it meant little to the awful tornado that hit our neighboring city of Poplar Bluff Monday afternoon. It is a hard matter to get at, the actual number of killed and wounded, but the latest report Thursday morning gave the number of deaths as 101, while the wounded was close to 300.

The Sixth annual banquet and entertainment of the Sikeston High School alumnae will be held at the high school gymnasium on May 19, immediately following the graduating exercises.

The commencement sermon will be held this year at the high school auditorium Sunday morning. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. John O. Ensor.

In a pre-season game played at Dexter last Sunday between Sikeston and Dexter, we were victors by a 10 to 1 score.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: The teenagers here in Memphis think you are tuned in our world like no other adult. You must get a ton of mail from teenagers or you must talk to a lot of kids because you really have the word. Just to keep you posted I am sending a copy of a questionnaire that has been floating around our high school. Nobody knows for sure where this thing got started, but the kids in my crowd, both guys and dolls, think it's pretty good.

I would like your opinion of this questionnaire and I know you will level. Please don't suggest I take it home and get my mother's views. If she saw it she would faint, and we'd have to call the doctor. Here it is:

Dear N and D: I can't evaluate this questionnaire because each questionnaire should be evaluated on the basis of the individual scoring. Let me say it's darned interesting (though somewhat gamey) and I appreciate your sending it to me.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . . . If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE DESERTED HUSBAND

Margie made two mistakes. The first, which she quickly realized, was in running away from her hard-to-get-along-with husband. The second was in asking him to take her back.

"Sure you can come back," her husband told her graciously. "But, you'll have to live in the bunk house with the hired hands until I say you can come back to the house. Out there, you'll be able to repent in leisure for having run away in haste."

Margie, however, quickly rebuffed her husband's unconditional terms of reconciliation and departed once again. This time, he took prompt and affirmative action. He sued to end their marriage on the grounds of desertion.

"I offered to take her back once," he told the judge, "but I won't do it again. This time we're through!"

"He never offered to take me back," objected Margie. "He offered to exile me to the bunkhouse. Siberia might have been better."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Margie's husband release from the marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The Judge held that when a wife deserts a husband and offers to return, she is entitled to be taken back under terms that are not inconsistent with her self respect, such as having to live in a bunk house with hired help.

(Based upon a 1944 New Jersey Ct. of Errors & Appeals Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A former employer, upon request from a prospective employer for a letter of reference, may, as a general rule, freely evaluate the employee as long as he does so without intent to harm the employee.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

That night I hauled my 111 pounds (which felt like 222) out of that bed and fell on my knees. It was rather a strange feeling to be on my knees, head bowed and eyes shut tight; for in all my years of praying, I had never bowed my head. Always I had looked up from whatever position I happened to be in at the time. Now I confessed to God that I was a sinner and asked his forgiveness . . . .

Budget Requests Slashed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The University of Missouri and the state Division of Mental Diseases suffered the sharpest cuts today as the Senate Appropriations Committee reported budget bills totaling $1,082,902,124.

That was $25 million less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended and $23.7 million less than passed by the House.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, committee chairman, said he hoped the bills would be ready for Senate action next week. That would put them in shape for conference committee settlement and give the legislature a full month to study revenue problems and work out the final catch-all appropriations bill before the session ends June 30.

Patterson said that in view of prospective appropriations increases next year, the committee merely wanted to slow down the "rapid escalation" of mental health expenditures.

It cut the division's money a flat four per cent below the governor's recommendations and also slashed its capital improvements budget.

Most of the cuts came in capital improvements, including about $10 million from the University of Missouri.

The university, for all of its four campuses at Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla and St. Louis requested a total of almost $47 million. The House cut that to $23,176,000 and the Senate committee trimmed it to $13,326,000.

A multi-purpose auditorium to cost $7,650,000 was knocked out, along with $2.5 million for an addition to the chemistry building, both on the Columbia campus.

The committee also eliminated $350,000 for an addition to a university system building not yet started, cut a quarter of a million from the university's request for repairs and replacements, and halved M. U.'s request of $500,000 for campus development sites.

But it added $1.6 million to air condition older buildings on the Columbia, Kansas City and Rolla campuses.

Altogether, Gov. Hearnes asked $82,494,000 for capital improvements. The House cut that by about $2 million and the Senate committee slashed it to $57,507,000.

Central Missouri State at Warrensburg lost $2 million for a new language and literature building.

Improvements at Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, were cut $1,417,000 to $550,000; Northwest Missouri State, Maryville, from $1,320,000 to $320,000.

Southeast State at Cape Girardeau was increased from $2,452,000 to $2,469,000 and South west State at Springfield was boosted from $2,875,000 to $3,198,000.

Lincoln University's capital improvements budget of $867,500 was left untouched, but its operating budget was increased substantially, from $1,972,000 as approved by the House, to $2,122,000.

Patterson said this was intended to upgrade the staff at the Jefferson City school, where students recently demonstrated against the quality of food, facilities and faculty.

Other state college operating budgets were not touched. Southern State College at Joplin, now in the process of development, was cut from $459,000 to $289,000. A $40,000 item for Missouri Western College at St. Joseph was eliminated. That college has not yet started.

A proposed $160,000 marina at Trail of Trears State Park near Cape Girardeau was cut out.

The committee eliminated three proposed regional park board centers, reducing the board's operating budget from $2 million to $1,782,000.

The Division of Mental Diseases was left with a total operating budget of almost $49 million about $2 million less than the governor recommended.

Eliminated was $490,000 for the division to plan juvenile training and diagnostic centers at state hospitals and schools.

Capital improvements at the state hospitals also were cut.

At the Fulton State Hospital the amount was reduced from $1,172,000 to $746,000; at St. Joseph from $752,000 to $640,000; at Nevada from $749,000 to $674,000; at Farmington from $2,237,000 to $317,000 and at the St. Louis State School and Hospital from $1,055,000 to $55,000.

The committee also eliminated $3 million for construction of a new office building in Jefferson City, $500,000 for an addition to the state Supreme Court building and $300,000 for a new office building in St. Louis.

It added more than $9 million for reorganization of the state Department of Revenue, which Patterson said would make tax collections more efficient and perhaps cheaper in the long run.

The committee took care of one of the governor's pet projects by adding $200,000 to grade and prepare the site for a state operated airport at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park and $135,000 for airport lights and an administration building.

A FIVE FOOT deep ditching project is underway on the Huff-Hubbard farm north of Sikeston. William Huff points to the height of the water level that will run almost 4,000 feet in two directions to drain more than 250 acres of land.

Land Being Graded For Farm Irrigation

Land grading, leveling and ditching has become the number one project on farmlands in the Bootheel area. With the advent of future need of increased production and changes in farming expected, land leveling and irrigation will continue at a much faster pace.

For the first time in three generations the present William Huff land, located between the north Sikeston city limits and Tanner road, has a program started. Huff is in partnership with Layton Hubbard.

The land was formerly owned by G. B. Greer, and later by Frank and Juanita VanHorne. The farm lies on the Sikeston ridge.

There will be 120 acres of the land leveled and irrigated, to be completed within the next week or 10 days. Ditches will be dug to drain about 250 acres.

The Soil Conservation Service, under the direction of Bob Landers, has outlined the drainage and leveling for the more than 1,000 acres that will be graded and drained in the years ahead.

The present work has a total of eight machines on leveling and grading, under the direction of the Anderson, Parker and Burch, Inc., of Matthews.

In the project a ditch measuring 1,300 feet in length on the east side of the land and 2,500 feet at the south portion, with a depth of five feet, will drain the first 250 acres to a pond on a low spot on the west side of a farm, a sandy area.

At the north portion of the first land leveling project, Huff will have two wells to furnish water for the 120 acres. The wells are 100 feet deep and will produce 2,700 gallons per minute through an eight-inch line.

Levees will be constructed to serve at the north and south ends of the basin, with a 15-foot difference in elevation between the field level and sump basin. Mechanical structures will be required to drop the runoff water from the field level to the sump and soil probes made by Louis Studer, agricultural engineer.

The land probes included nine, each to a depth of 10 feet. The top 12 to 18 inches was a fine sandy loam with high organic content, and the remaining eight to nine feet was a medium sand.

This year Huff has about 375 acres planted in wheat, to be followed with some 450 acres of soybeans and about 125 acres in cotton. The balance of the land is planted with corn.

The land is among the best productive land in the area during good weather years and, with the advent of leveling and irrigation, will have a better guarantee of high production, which is the aim of Huff and Hubbard.

Parma-Risco Merger Dropped

PARMA -- A election scheduled for Tuesday in Parma and Risco to vote on a proposed merger between the two school districts has been canceled by mutual agreement between the two boards of education.

After technicalities were discovered in the proposal, the two school boards asked the New Madrid county court to cancel the proposed election.

Under the proposed plan the two districts would have been merged into one large district with six new board members to be elected.

A tentative agreement had been reached whereby three of the new members would have come from each of the two old districts.

Also, a tentative agreement had been reached whereby each of the two districts would have retained grades one through six and a junior high school consisting of grades 7, 8 and 9. The senior high school would have been located in one of the two towns.

Soviet Ship Again Brushes U.S. Destroyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring warnings, a Soviet warship brushed against the U.S. Navy destroyer Walker early today in a second incident of confrontation between American and Russian ships on the high seas, the Pentagon said.

The Walker was scraped by another Soviet ship Wednesday.

Today's incident occurred in the same general area of the Sea of Japan, about 300 nautical miles west-southwest of the Japanese island of Hokaido.

"The incident occurred when the Soviet destroyer turned into the Walker, despite the latter's warnings," a Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon said the collision occurred at 1:33 a.m. EDT.

As in Wednesday's bumping together of destroyers, "there were no casualties and only light damage was reported," the Pentagon said.

The Soviet ship, not identified by name, was described as a destroyer of the Krupnyy class.

The Walker, along with two other destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet, have been undergoing antisubmarine warfare training maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

Wednesday, another Soviet destroyer — not the one involved in today's incident — made several close sweeps toward the American task group, coming as near as 50 feet on two occasions and finally bumping up against the Walker, causing minor damage.

The United States officially protested to the Soviet government over the first incident and was expected to file another complaint as a result of today's collision.

Sources view the Soviet actions as harassment.

The situation has taken on grave tones in view of the Vietnam war. Russia is a major supplier of war materials to North Vietnam.

State Department sources said the incident could indicate a further toughening of Moscow's attitude toward the United States as the Vietnam war intensifies.

But the sources added it could just be a case of an overzealous performance by Soviet sailors, similar to the nuisance-making they said the Soviets have been carrying out against American ships for some time.

Despite the U. S. protest, not all the details about the incident are available in Washington, officials said.

The Pentagon said the Soviet destroyer harassed the Walker and three other American ships for 90 minutes before the collision.

John M. Leddy, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, called in the ranking Soviet diplomat in Washington, Yuri N. Thchernakov, to deliver the U. S. protest. A written protest may be submitted later, officials said.

The USS Banner, a small, unarmed vessel engaged in technical research, and the Soviet vessel Anemometer collided nearly a year ago, also in the Sea of Japan, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

A spokesman said that collision resulted because of harassing tactics by the Anemometer, described as an intelligence-gathering trawler.

In 1965, the United States charged the Soviet Union with several instances of harassment of American warships.

Pemiscot County Prosecutor Dies

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Sharon Jesse Pate, 67, prosecuting attorney of Pemiscot county, died at 1:20 a.m. Wednesday in the Baptist Memorial hospital at Memphis from a heart ailment. He had been a heart patient for one month.

Born in Caruthersville Aug. 13, 1899, son of W. J. and Nina Pate, he attended the public schools here. He attended William Jewell College at Liberty, and graduated from Washington University at St. Louis with a law degree. He returned to Caruthersville to practice law.

On Oct. 17, 1929, he married the former Dorothy Lee Corbett, who survives.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge, a former member of the Lions Club and a member of the First Baptist church. A Democrat, he served as representative of Pemiscot county in the early 1930's and was serving his second term as prosecuting attorney.

Services were held today at 4:30 p.m. in the Eastwood Memorial Methodist church with the Rev. Marvin Niblack, pastor, and the Rev. Howard Ray, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating.

Burial was in Little Prairie cemetery, with LaForge Undertaking Co. in charge.

Annual Sessions Win Approval in House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed a constitutional change calling for annual sessions of the legislature. It now goes to the Senate.

The session would start each year the first week in January and, beginning in 1969, would continue until May 31 in odd numbered years and until May 15 in even numbered years.

The change also would allow bills remaining in either house in odd numbered years to be carried over to the next session.

If the Senate agrees with the House the issue would come before the voters in the November 1968 general election or at a special election called by the governor.

The constitutional amendment also would remove limitations on the number of legislative employes.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to increase the salaries of the Kansas City Police Department.

An increase in the salary of the director of the Water Resources Board was also approved. He is paid $10,000 a year now. His salary could be increased to not more than $15,000.

Also sent to the Senate were bills to:

Increase retirement benefits of state employes.

Let applicants for old age assistance hold life insurance with a cash value of up to $1,000 without endangering their eligibility.

Extend retirement benefits to non-teaching employes of junior college districts.

The Senate spent most of the morning on a bill to stiffen the state drivers' license law but had to lay it over with several amendments still pending.

The house steered clear of two perennial argument producing bills—to provide a veterans bonus and to permit parimutuel betting at state regulated horse racing tracks.

Both are oldtimers that have failed repeatedly in the past.

Wednesday the House, after four hours of battling, advanced a bill that would put reassessment of property in the hands of the State Tax Commission in counties where values are far out of line.

City Curfew To Be Enforced

A special meeting of the city council will be held at 5 p.m. today to discuss the application of Mrs. Janet Spitler for a 5 per cent liquor license to operate the establishment formerly known as Roscoe's Grill, 136 East Front.

City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today that the police department has been instructed to enforce the curfew ordinance in all parts of the city.

The statement came after a complaint was received regarding enforcement of the ordinance, Miller explained.

Persons under 18 years old must be off the streets from 11 p.m. till 5 a.m. each night except Fridays and Saturdays, when the curfew begins at 12 p.m., the ordinance provides.

Mrs. Eugene Spears, 401 Carroll, reported to police at 8:12 a.m. today that a watch and class ring valued at $50 and $10 in cash were taken from a locker at the high school.

Hayes Tidwell, 506 Carroll, reported to police at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday that three Negro youths threw rocks and broke the rear door window of his car when he drove past Edwards IGA Supermarket, 863 West Malone, Wednesday evening.

Phone Rates Hiked

Telephone rates in Sikeston and Morehouse will be increased by a 25 cent per month charge for all residence phones and $1 per month charge for all business phones effective July 21, John Donoho, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company manager, said today.

The last rate adjustment for Sikeston and Morehouse customers was made in 1957, Donoho noted. Prior to that increase, telephone rates were increased throughout the state in 1951.

The new rate increase is due to the growth in the number of telephones in the Sikeston and Morehouse calling scope, he noted.

Both billing centers had been in the bracket of 5,000-9,999 telephones in local calling scope.

The calling scope for both Sikeston and Morehouse now exceeds 10,100 telephones, he noted.

"Telephone rates in Missouri are based uniformly on the number of telephones which customers can call without paying a long distance charge," Donoho explained.

"Throughout the state, telephone exchanges of similar size have the same rates. Sikeston and Morehouse service has literally outgrown its present rate group," he said.

The bracket the towns will enter July 21, includes towns with local calling scopes of 10,000 to 16,999 telephones, Donoho said.

Based on past growth, another rate adjustment possibly may be expected in eight to 10 years, Donoho commented. But this depends on area growth, the economy and several other factors, he noted.

The local calling scope of Sikeston and Morehouse residents in the extended area service allows customers to call without long distance charges to Matthews, Canalou and distances from 12 to 15 miles south of Sikeston; north to Blodgett, Vanduser and Salcedo, and distances of about eight to 10 miles north of Sikeston; east to houses east of Bertrand, and west to about two miles east of Essex.

The new monthly residence phone rates, which will become effective July 21, are, one - party $4.50 two-party $3.75, and rural eight-party $3.25.

Business rates to take effect July 21 are: one - party $9.50; rural eight - party $5.25, coin (monthly guarantee) $7.80.

No increase is planned in the home extension rate of 90 cents, the business extension of $1.50 or the business coin extension rate of 90 cents per month.

The rates listed do not include the federal 10 per cent tax or the 3 per cent state tax.

The number of telephones in the local calling scope of Sikeston's customers has increased from 5,600 in 1957, to more than 10,100 today. Morehouse's calling scope has increased from 6,200 in 1958 to 10,100 today, Donoho said.

Cancer Drive Now $2,790

The Scott county chapter of the American Cancer Society, which began collecting funds in April and will close its drive in about 10 days, has collected $2,790, Wayne Woodard, county chairman said.

The amount collected exceeds last year's total by $75 and six communities have not yet reported.

The county goal is $3,100. Woodard urged persons who have not contributed to send donations to him or Dale Beaird, Sikeston chairman.

Beaird reported that about $1,600 of the amount collected was received in Sikeston. Businesses in Sikeston have not yet been contacted, he noted.

Sikeston to Host Parley For Housing Authorities

Representatives of 21 housing authorities in Southeast Missouri have been invited to attend a conference on development to be held May 23, at the Sikeston Housing Authority building, Franklin Avenue, Billy Hanna, director, said today.

C. K. Odor, executive director of the Housing Authority and Urban Renewal Agency in Columbia, will be guest speaker at the meeting. Odor is past president of the Missouri National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials.

Also attending the meeting are two representatives of the State Office of Regional Planning, Barry Lovelace and Robert Gunter.

Replies have been received from 12 of the housing authorities invited, Hanna said.

Development covers all necessary work that must be accomplished to bring public housing units into being, from the stage of site selection until the units are ready for occupancy, he explained.

A site for the 75 housing units for elderly persons in need approved for Sikeston has not been selected yet, Hanna noted.

Housing authorities invited to the conference are, Bernie, Bloomfield, Campbell, Cardwell, Caruthersville, Charleston, Clarkton, Dexter, Gideon, Hayti, Holcomb, Hornersville, Kennett, Malden, Poplar Bluff, Senath, Sikeston, Steele, Portageville, Illmo and West Plains.

Illmo has a housing authority board and has made application for 100 units. Presently, it has no units in operation.

Cape Girardeau and Benton also are exploring the possibilities of establishing housing authorities.

Budget Requests Slashed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The University of Missouri and the state Division of Mental Diseases suffered the sharpest cuts today as the Senate Appropriations Committee reported budget bills totaling $1,082,902,124.

That was $25 million less than Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended and $23.7 million less than passed by the House.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, committee chairman, said he hoped the bills would be ready for Senate action next week. That would put them in shape for conference committee settlement and give the legislature a full month to study revenue problems and work out the final catch-all appropriations bill before the session ends June 30.

Patterson said that in view of prospective appropriations increases next year, the committee merely wanted to slow down the "rapid escalation" of mental health expenditures.

It cut the division's money a flat four per cent below the governor's recommendations and also slashed its capital improvements budget.

Most of the cuts came in capital improvements, including about $10 million from the University of Missouri.

The university, for all of its four campuses at Columbia, Kansas City, Rolla and St. Louis requested a total of almost $47 million. The House cut that to $23,176,000 and the Senate committee trimmed it to $13,326,000.

A multi-purpose auditorium to cost $7,650,000 was knocked out, along with $2.5 million for an addition to the chemistry building, both on the Columbia campus.

The committee also eliminated $350,000 for an addition to a university system building not yet started, cut a quarter of a million from the university's request for repairs and replacements, and halved M. U.'s request of $500,000 for campus development sites.

But it added $1.6 million to air condition older buildings on the Columbia, Kansas City and Rolla campuses.

Altogether, Gov. Hearnes asked $82,494,000 for capital improvements. The House cut that by about $2 million and the Senate committee slashed it to $57,507,000.

Central Missouri State at Warrensburg lost $2 million for a new language and literature building.

Improvements at Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, were cut $1,417,000 to $550,000; Northwest Missouri State, Maryville, from $1,320,000 to $320,000.

Southeast State at Cape Girardeau was increased from $2,452,000 to $2,469,000 and South west State at Springfield was boosted from $2,875,000 to $3,198,000.

Lincoln University's capital improvements budget of $867,500 was left untouched, but its operating budget was increased substantially, from $1,972,000 as approved by the House, to $2,122,000.

Patterson said this was intended to upgrade the staff at the Jefferson City school, where students recently demonstrated against the quality of food, facilities and faculty.

Other state college operating budgets were not touched. Southern State College at Joplin, now in the process of development, was cut from $459,000 to $289,000. A $40,000 item for Missouri Western College at St. Joseph was eliminated. That college has not yet started.

A proposed $160,000 marina at Trail of Trears State Park near Cape Girardeau was cut out.

The committee eliminated three proposed regional park board centers, reducing the board's operating budget from $2 million to $1,782,000.

The Division of Mental Diseases was left with a total operating budget of almost $49 million about $2 million less than the governor recommended.

Eliminated was $490,000 for the division to plan juvenile training and diagnostic centers at state hospitals and schools.

Capital improvements at the state hospitals also were cut.

At the Fulton State Hospital the amount was reduced from $1,172,000 to $746,000; at St. Joseph from $752,000 to $640,000; at Nevada from $749,000 to $674,000; at Farmington from $2,237,000 to $317,000 and at the St. Louis State School and Hospital from $1,055,000 to $55,000.

The committee also eliminated $3 million for construction of a new office building in Jefferson City, $500,000 for an addition to the state Supreme Court building and $300,000 for a new office building in St. Louis.

It added more than $9 million for reorganization of the state Department of Revenue, which Patterson said would make tax collections more efficient and perhaps cheaper in the long run.

The committee took care of one of the governor's pet projects by adding $200,000 to grade and prepare the site for a state operated airport at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park and $135,000 for airport lights and an administration building.

A FIVE FOOT deep ditching project is underway on the Huff-Hubbard farm north of Sikeston. William Huff points to the height of the water level that will run almost 4,000 feet in two directions to drain more than 250 acres of land.

Marston Man Hit by Truck

MARSTON -- John Henry Robertson, 82, was killed when he was struck by a gravel truck on U. S. 61 at 3:50 p.m. Wednesday.

The highway patrol said Robertson walked onto the road and into the path of the truck, driven by Harold Hines, 24, Cape Girardeau.

Robertson was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston where he died at 6:35 p.m.

The body is at Richards Funeral Home in New Madrid.

To Discuss Bootheel Tourism

PORTAGEVILLE -- The Southeast Missouri Development Corporation will sponsor a six-county area meeting on outdoor recreation at the University of Missouri Delta Center next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Sam Jones, of East Prairie is chairman of the outdoor recreation committee, and has invited representatives from the six county courts, civic clubs, sportsman's clubs, Chambers of Commerce and mayors.

There is a lack of public recreational facilities in the Bootheel even though tourism is the second largest business in Missouri.

Robert Dunkerson, director of outdoor recreation in Jefferson City, will be the principal speaker. State and federal agency representatives will discuss their participation in planning and constructing recreational facilities.

Each county will attempt to present some definite projects for this year. The six counties served by SMDC are Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Four Treated

Four persons were treated in the Missouri Delta Community hospital emergency room Wednesday.

Kathy Ann Minehart, New Madrid, injured hand playing at school; Gary Allen Rodgers, struck side of head on electric meter; Florence Mae Baker, struck back of head on bed; Mary E. Castleberry, slammed car door on foot.

Land Being Graded For Farm Irrigation

Land grading, leveling and ditching has become the number one project on farmlands in the Bootheel area. With the advent of future need of increased production and changes in farming expected, land leveling and irrigation will continue at a much faster pace.

For the first time in three generations the present William Huff land, located between the north Sikeston city limits and Tanner road, has a program started. Huff is in partnership with Layton Hubbard.

The land was formerly owned by G. B. Greer, and later by Frank and Juanita VanHorne. The farm lies on the Sikeston ridge.

There will be 120 acres of the land leveled and irrigated, to be completed within the next week or 10 days. Ditches will be dug to drain about 250 acres.

The Soil Conservation Service, under the direction of Bob Landers, has outlined the drainage and leveling for the more than 1,000 acres that will be graded and drained in the years ahead.

The present work has a total of eight machines on leveling and grading, under the direction of the Anderson, Parker and Burch, Inc., of Matthews.

In the project a ditch measuring 1,300 feet in length on the east side of the land and 2,500 feet at the south portion, with a depth of five feet, will drain the first 250 acres to a pond on a low spot on the west side of a farm, a sandy area.

At the north portion of the first land leveling project, Huff will have two wells to furnish water for the 120 acres. The wells are 100 feet deep and will produce 2,700 gallons per minute through an eight-inch line.

Levees will be constructed to serve at the north and south ends of the basin, with a 15-foot difference in elevation between the field level and sump basin. Mechanical structures will be required to drop the runoff water from the field level to the sump and soil probes made by Louis Studer, agricultural engineer.

The land probes included nine, each to a depth of 10 feet. The top 12 to 18 inches was a fine sandy loam with high organic content, and the remaining eight to nine feet was a medium sand.

This year Huff has about 375 acres planted in wheat, to be followed with some 450 acres of soybeans and about 125 acres in cotton. The balance of the land is planted with corn.

The land is among the best productive land in the area during good weather years and, with the advent of leveling and irrigation, will have a better guarantee of high production, which is the aim of Huff and Hubbard.

Parma-Risco Merger Dropped

PARMA -- A election scheduled for Tuesday in Parma and Risco to vote on a proposed merger between the two school districts has been canceled by mutual agreement between the two boards of education.

After technicalities were discovered in the proposal, the two school boards asked the New Madrid county court to cancel the proposed election.

Under the proposed plan the two districts would have been merged into one large district with six new board members to be elected.

A tentative agreement had been reached whereby three of the new members would have come from each of the two old districts.

Also, a tentative agreement had been reached whereby each of the two districts would have retained grades one through six and a junior high school consisting of grades 7, 8 and 9. The senior high school would have been located in one of the two towns.

Soviet Ship Again Brushes U.S. Destroyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring warnings, a Soviet warship brushed against the U.S. Navy destroyer Walker early today in a second incident of confrontation between American and Russian ships on the high seas, the Pentagon said.

The Walker was scraped by another Soviet ship Wednesday.

Today's incident occurred in the same general area of the Sea of Japan, about 300 nautical miles west-southwest of the Japanese island of Hokaido.

"The incident occurred when the Soviet destroyer turned into the Walker, despite the latter's warnings," a Pentagon statement said.

The Pentagon said the collision occurred at 1:33 a.m. EDT.

As in Wednesday's bumping together of destroyers, "there were no casualties and only light damage was reported," the Pentagon said.

The Soviet ship, not identified by name, was described as a destroyer of the Krupnyy class.

The Walker, along with two other destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet, have been undergoing antisubmarine warfare training maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

Wednesday, another Soviet destroyer — not the one involved in today's incident — made several close sweeps toward the American task group, coming as near as 50 feet on two occasions and finally bumping up against the Walker, causing minor damage.

The United States officially protested to the Soviet government over the first incident and was expected to file another complaint as a result of today's collision.

Sources view the Soviet actions as harassment.

The situation has taken on grave tones in view of the Vietnam war. Russia is a major supplier of war materials to North Vietnam.

State Department sources said the incident could indicate a further toughening of Moscow's attitude toward the United States as the Vietnam war intensifies.

But the sources added it could just be a case of an overzealous performance by Soviet sailors, similar to the nuisance-making they said the Soviets have been carrying out against American ships for some time.

Despite the U. S. protest, not all the details about the incident are available in Washington, officials said.

The Pentagon said the Soviet destroyer harassed the Walker and three other American ships for 90 minutes before the collision.

John M. Leddy, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, called in the ranking Soviet diplomat in Washington, Yuri N. Thchernakov, to deliver the U. S. protest. A written protest may be submitted later, officials said.

The USS Banner, a small, unarmed vessel engaged in technical research, and the Soviet vessel Anemometer collided nearly a year ago, also in the Sea of Japan, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

A spokesman said that collision resulted because of harassing tactics by the Anemometer, described as an intelligence-gathering trawler.

In 1965, the United States charged the Soviet Union with several instances of harassment of American warships.

Annual Sessions Win Approval in House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed a constitutional change calling for annual sessions of the legislature. It now goes to the Senate.

The session would start each year the first week in January and, beginning in 1969, would continue until May 31 in odd numbered years and until May 15 in even numbered years.

The change also would allow bills remaining in either house in odd numbered years to be carried over to the next session.

If the Senate agrees with the House the issue would come before the voters in the November 1968 general election or at a special election called by the governor.

The constitutional amendment also would remove limitations on the number of legislative employes.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill to increase the salaries of the Kansas City Police Department.

An increase in the salary of the director of the Water Resources Board was also approved. He is paid $10,000 a year now. His salary could be increased to not more than $15,000.

Also sent to the Senate were bills to:

Increase retirement benefits of state employes.

Let applicants for old age assistance hold life insurance with a cash value of up to $1,000 without endangering their eligibility.

Extend retirement benefits to non-teaching employes of junior college districts.

The Senate spent most of the morning on a bill to stiffen the state drivers' license law but had to lay it over with several amendments still pending.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes scored again when the legislature delivered to him a bill authorizing construction of toll roads virtually intact.

Missouri should benefit from this legislation in two ways: Faster, more direct and more economical travel by Missourians from one Missouri city to another. Increased through traffic by out-of-state motorists and more spending by tourists in the state.

This is a large state. Most highways have been built between principal cities - especially through the center of the state east and west.

There is now no good, fast route from Southeast Missouri to Jefferson City or Kansas City. There is none from Kansas City to Northeast Missouri. The state needs good criss cross routes as well as a fast direct north-south thoroughfare. They are not provided by the regular highway network.

Many problems remain. Missouri must be able to sell the revenue bonds to build the toll roads at an interest rate it can afford to pay. A revival of tight money might send it out of reach.

There is a natural concern that if revenues aren't adequate to support toll roads, the regular highway system might suffer. The regular system needs a constantly increasing flow of revenue to construct new roads and maintain existing highways. It cannot be neglected without damaging the state's economy, endangering lives and property.

One of the most heartening aspects of the Hearnes' approach are the feasibility studies that will precede the building of any toll roads.

These studies should disclose whether there is enough need for a road to justify its construction.

The emphasis should be placed on total potential travel and not needs of Missourians alone. For example every Southeast Missouri resident would welcome a direct route to Jefferson City or Kansas City but the final determination should be based on total travel.

The needs of through travelers from out-of-state should not be ignored because their dollar is as good as the Missourian's.

This total need concept should not only determine whether the toll road is economically feasible but it should also be the deciding factor in the selection of the route.

The shortest distance across the state would be more appealing to through travelers although it might not be exactly what Missouri residents desire. The route selection should be based on total travel potential alone, not politics, not Missourian's preference alone or out-of-state traveler preference alone.

All decisions should be based on economic, non-political considerations.

If the toll road law becomes the political football of the governor and the state highway commission it will be the state and Missourians who will suffer in the last analysis.

Let's build toll roads that will be profitable because they are in great demand by all travelers.

Let's make routes through Missouri so inviting to out-of-state travelers that they will want to go through our state. Missouri now often is avoided in favor of highways in adjoining states.

THE CARROT IS A CROPPER

Before too many months go by Missourians will be voting on constitutional amendments that are now being debated and advanced by the current session of the General Assembly.

One of these measures deserves more than passing attention from voters because it points up a growing practice in state government that has been adopted part and parcel, from the sly old politicians in Washington. We are referring to the method of hanging the carrot out for all to see, with something less desirable hidden from general view. In this case, the carrot is the constitutional amendment calling for annual sessions of the General Assembly; the hidden part is a provision that would permit the legislature and not the voters to set a portion of the lawmaker's salary.

The manner in which the annual session amendment has now been written would require the voter to weigh not the merits of the proposed change but weigh, instead, which is the lesser evil.

This is wrong; it is, in our view even being dishonest with the voters.

The amendments to any constitution should be entities within themselves; they should deal with one subject and only one subject. If more amendments are needed, then they should be written and submitted as separate proposals.

This is not the first time the General Assembly has followed the unsavory federal legislative practice of tying lots of loose ends into one package. But it is done not for the sake of neatness but to fool the voter and entice him to accept one needed change while, at the same time, approving something less than needed.

The annual sessions amendment, as now written, calls for a change in the constitution that would also permit the legislature to set salary allowances. In addition, it calls for an increase in legislative employes, a subject that was submitted to the voters only last year.

All three subjects are presently wrapped into one neat amendment.

And the voters will have to decide whether they want annual sessions bad enough to overlook the other provisions.

The legislature is not playing fair with the voters and the legislature knows it. We hope the voters will know it too.

ON BEHALF OF THE SPEAKER

Although none has been raised in recent weeks, we should like to venture just one small voice of defense in behalf of James Godfrey, the first-term Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives. The second most influential man in state government has been having his troubles of late, trying to preserve some degree of decorum in a legislative chamber that traditionally is free and easy with its conduct.

Speaker Godfrey's critics have run the gamut with their charges; he is too lenient, he is too forceful, he is too dictatorial, he lets the members get away with something this side of murder.

Somewhere in between must be the truth.

As any first-termer must, the Speaker appears to be feeling his way, getting acquainted with an important and difficult office he has occupied for less than four months. The Speaker appears to be dealing, too often, with members of the majority party who sometimes feel they are "rubber stamps" for the Democratic leadership and a smaller but more vocal minority party that has nothing to lose from some occasional irresponsible behavior.

What the Speaker's critics have not said, however, is that during the four months of the current legislature, it has been the House and not the Senate that has shown itself to be responsive to the public's needs and responsive to its obligations to meet these needs. During this session it has been the Senate that has for the most part, been willing to let the lower chamber repair its irresponsible behavior, and the House has performed this duty in the manner the voters expect.

Part of the responsibility, if not much of it, can be traced to the Speaker, who obviously has tried to strike a happy balance between a dictator with a gavel and a too-lenient observer of House proceedings. Perhaps Speaker Godfrey's critics should examine the overall record of the House before throwing out harsh reprimands that are of second importance to a first-rate legislative record.

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has made considerable progress lately in learning the languages of such birds as the crow and such beasties as the dolphin.

What it should set out to decipher next is the language of women. That would really do civilization a favor.

However, it is unlikely that science will ever accomplish this feat. Women don't want anyone to solve their language. It is the real secret of the legendary mystery of their sex.

There is a fundamental and inescapable difference in the employment of language by man and woman.

A man uses language to say what's on his mind. To a woman, this is incredibly naive. She uses language to say what isn't on her mind.

Except when she loses her temper and thereby reveals herself inadvertently, a woman opens her mouth only to plead the 5th Amendment. Her conversation is a camouflage to protect herself and her motives.

Nothing about his wife puzzles a new husband more than her enigmatic use of language. The marriage really begins to succeed only when he begins dimly to perceive that she rarely says what she means and rarely means what she says.

Once that happens he can usually manage to get along with her very well.

He knows that when she asks him if he feels chilly she really means, "Go close the window, Dopey; I'm cold."

He knows that when she asks, "Do you care for any more meat?" what she really means is, "Pass the platter, Buster; can't you see I'm starving?"

He knows that when she says, "It's so nice out, shall we walk?" what she really means is, "My feet have been hurting for hours—so go call a taxi, Big Stupid."

Even a veteran husband, no matter how accustomed he gets to a wife's upside down use of language, can't quite adjust himself to her use of the words "never" and "always."

For example, if he hasn't taken her out for a week, she tells him, "You never take me out anymore." If he forgets an anniversary once, she tells him forever after, "You never remember our anniversary."

A situation that befell a friend of mine may serve to illustrate the wifely use of the word "always."

In 1935, as he was turning at an intersection, another car brushed against his and dented his fender.

"For 32 years since then," he told me mournfully, "every time we have approached that intersection my wife has grabbed me by the sleeve and said, 'Be careful. Remember, you always have an accident here.'"

There are some more things I could tell you about how wives use language. But why should I? In this field every husband has to learn how to interpret his own babbling brook.

Last year, for the first time in more than a decade, the general unemployment rate in the country averaged below 4%. President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers regards this as "essentially full employment." The Council states its expectation that unemployment will remain at the same low level in 1967, and by implication at least, rejects the notion that we should strive for even lower unemployment rates.

Mr. Walter Reuther has roundly criticized the Council for what he calls "this attitude of complacent self - satisfaction." In his view, unemployment of 4% is much too high and national economic policy must be directed toward reducing it.

In this kind of controversy there is an element that must puzzle the general public. Just how do we decide whether 4% -- or any other figure -- is the "right" level of unemployment in our kind of society?

Clearly the reduction of unemployment to zero is an impossible and undesirable objective. As long as people are free to change their employment, there will be a certain number of them between jobs at any time. And the operation of a dynamic economy requires that new and expanding enterprises have some [illegible] to draw on.

Gut ruling out zero as the unemployment objective still leaves us with the question: Should it be 3%, 4%, 5% -- or what? Mr. Reuther's chief statistical argument for an objective substantially below 4% is the fact that lower unemployment rates have prevailed in practically all the other industrial countries of the world.

Other countries collect their unemployment figures by methods different from those used in the U.S. But even when adjustments are made for these technical differences, it appears to be a fact that unemployment rates in such other countries as Britain, France, Germany and Japan have been well below 4% in recent years.

But this still doesn't settle the question of the proper unemployment objective in the U.S. There are reasons for expecting a somewhat higher unemployment rate here. We have a less homogeneous labor force than other countries -- the range of abilities, habits, attitudes, etc., is wider here than elsewhere. And our population is accustomed to moving about more than the people in other countries -- both geographically and occupationally. Our business enterprises are subject to more sudden changes in fortune than those in other lands. Employment in any given establishment is likely to vary more here, since we prefer competition to the "live and let live" philosophy. Consumer tastes seem to change more frequently and more eratically than in other parts of the world. New products are introduced more frequently here with unpredictable results for particular businesses.

All these factors are an indication of the greater dynamism of the American economy. An economy with these characteristics needs more elbow-room than the more stable economies of other countries. And a somewhat higher level of unemployment is an inescapable aspect of this greater elbow-room. It is a sign of freedom, growth, and adaptability to a changing world.

So Mr. Reuther's comparison of U.S. unemployment rates with those of other countries doesn't prove that 4% is too high as our national objective. No one should be dogmatic in naming some one number as the proper unemployment goal for all time. All we can say is that, under present circumstances, an attempt to reduce unemployment well below the rate which prevailed in 1966 would pose rather serious threats to price stability and economic efficiency.

BOOM DAYS FOR KNOW-HOWS

The day of the rugged business individualist, the man who runs his company like a tight ship with himself as all-powerful captain, is ending in America. Power is passing from the individual corporate president or chairman of the board to the expert groups further down in his firm, observes famed Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith.

"Never again will the average, informed person know the name of the current head of Ford or Standard Oil," he says. "The latter, like all others, will have to produce his driving license when paying by check."

Where once the names of the great bankers - Cooke, Gould, Morgan, Mellon - were part of the American folklore, today there are few bankers whose names are known outside the financial community. Fame today requires that a financier "collect modern art, have Japanese wrestlers perform in the lobby, or stage Ping-Pong contests in the street."

The control of business enterprises has become collegial, says Galbraith. It is based on expert knowledge much as earlier generations of power were based on land or capital.

Power lies with the individuals who possess knowledge, not connections with the financial community. If their knowledge is particular and strategic, their power becomes very great - not as individuals, however, but as part of the decision - making group.

There is a popular tendency to think of groups or committees as inefficient. Not so, says the economist.

"Highly paid men, when sitting around a table as a committee, are not necessarily wasting more time in the aggregate than each would waste all by himself."

It would be nice to think that this is as true in Washington as in Wall Street.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., for 32 years considered the no. 1 champion on labor, last week got a message from the AFL-CIO, relayed through his assistant, Bill Berg, calling Morse a "strike-breaker".

"We'll have to re-assess our support given you in the past," was the message.

"I'm not going to be blackmailed on legislation," was the reply Morse sent back. "Tell them to go to hell."

The AFL-CIO message was prompted by the fact that Morse introduced the President's bill to mediate the current railroad - labor dispute, giving both sides 90 days to come to terms.

"I had much to do with drafting that bill," says Morse very frankly. "Labor is attacking it as compulsory arbitration, but if people read it they'll find that it's not compulsory arbitration, it's extended collective bargaining and mediation leading to finality."

The bill calls for 30 days in which a mediation panel will mediate between both sides; a second 30 days in which the board writes its report and sends it to congress; a third 30 - day period in which the two sides are given a chance to reach an agreement.

If they do not reach an agreement within the above 90 days, then, on the 91st day, the report becomes final; and the railroads are forced to operate under the terms of the report, while railroad labor is forced to accept those terms up to not more than two years.

MORSE'S LONG RECORD

Morse served as chairman of the war labor board during World War II. He is probably the no. 1 labor mediation expert in the United States. In the past 32 years he has mediated more labor disputes than any other man in the country, including the recent airplane mechanics strike, the Longshoremen's strike, a previous rail strike, and the steel strike.

Morse points out that compulsory arbitration is a 100 per cent judicial process, in which the arbiter sits in the same role as a judge, weighing the preponderance of evidence. If either side fails to make a case under the preponderance of the evidence, that side loses.

In contrast, the proposed law to settle the current railroad dispute, Morse points out, provides that the panel of mediators must be bound by the framework of the proposals by each party.

"The right to strike in a national emergency," says the senator from Oregon, "is a relative right. The public has a superior right -- namely, the right to be protected in time of war. I am not for the war in Vietnam. I have been against it. Nevertheless the war is taking place, and men are dying in it. They have a right to have supplies; and no union has a right to upset the shipment of those supplies."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., is proposing the seizure of the railroads as a settlement. Other senators have various other proposals. It will be a long and bitter debate. But Morse says he will stand firm that "the American people have a right to be protected, even if I am called a strikebreaker."

LBJ AND HARRY TRUMAN

Those who deal with LBJ from day to day are sometimes flabbergasted at the pains to which he will go to do little things for people.

On Harry Truman's recent 83rd birthday, Wilbur Cohen, deputy secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, recalled how two years earlier, when the first medicare bill was to be signed, he had received a call from the White House. LBJ himself was on the phone.

"How many people would we have to take to Kansas City to sign this bill down in Harry Truman's library?" he asked.

Cohen replied that there were about 300 people involved in helping to pass the medicare bill, all of whom should be invited to participate in the final ceremony. The list included George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, and Andy Biemiller, top AFL-CIO lobbyist on Capitol Hill, both of whom had swung a lot of votes for medicare. And there were a lot of other labor leaders, doctors, senators, congressmen and friends of the elderly.

"We've got only two planes," the President said. "And they'll hold about 100."

That seemed to veto having the bill signed in Kansas City.

But Secretary Cohen's phone rang again.

"Wilbur," said the President, "I want you to see what you can do about shaving that list down. Harry Truman was the man who first introduced the medicare bill. He worked hard for it when the going was tough. He may not be with us too much longer. We ought to try to sign this bill down there where he can participate. You come over here, Wilbur, and see what you can do about the list."

Wilbur Cohen went over to the White House, helped arrange private transportation for some of the distinguished guests. The bill was signed in Independence, Mo., with Harry Truman happily looking on.

HIRING SUMMER STUDENTS

A lot of companies all over the USA are doing their best to hire students for the summer under the President's youth opportunity campaign.

They range from the Northern Virginia Board of Realtors, which has placed students in branch offices of the Virginia Employment Commission to help fellow students find jobs, to American Foresight, Inc., of Philadelphia, which hires all college students who apply. These students sell cookware for eleven weeks during the summer, with guaranteed income of $500 for the season. Some students have earned as much as $4,000 in one summer. American Foresight also offers college scholarships to its summer employees.

H. L. Hunt Says

NOT A PARTISAN PLAN

A current issue of the utmost importance is the need for reform of the Electoral College System of choosing the President of the United States. This is a non-partisan issue, concerning Democrats, Republicans and independents alike, and a non-partisan plan has been put forward to meet it.

This is the Congressional District Reform Plan - rapidly coming to be known by the simplified title of CONDIRP. The plan provides for the people to choose by ballot one presidential elector from their congressional district and two electors at large from the entire state. Each candidate for President and Vice President would then be represented by one or more local citizens seeking the post of elector in their names.

The electors would be required, in advance of election day, to pledge their votes for the candidates of their choice for President and Vice President. They then would be bound to cast their votes for these avowed candidates.

CONDIRP would preserve the equal power of each individual's vote no matter where the voter lives. That is the big difference from the present system. Today the party whose candidates receive the majority of votes in a state is awarded all the electoral votes held by that state. This is the case even should one candidate receive no more than 100 votes, or five votes or even one vote less than his opponent.

The present system gives too much power to political machines operating in the mid-city sections of our metropolitan areas. CONDIRP proposes to correct this imbalance so urgently needed. HLH.

Rockefeller's Labor-Political Machine Moving West

NEW YORK - The other Saturday night was hardly the loneliest night in the week for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his lady, Happy. For a non-candidate, Mr. Rockefeller did some mighty swift hotel-hopping and banquet bantering - and all before labor audiences.

To the politically sophisticated who raced in his wake, there no longer was any doubt of either his drive for the Republican presidential nomination or the strategic pattern of his campaign. The "Eastern establishment", now reaching through and past Pennsylvania, was proving that it could successfully crack the Democrats' big city vote - especially on the labor front - even if Lyndon Johnson does stand for re-election.

On that Saturday night, April 29, the governor and his lady first made an early appearance at an overcrowded banquet honoring AFL-CIO vice-president David Sullivan, leader of the politically influential Building Service Employes International Union.

On the dais with the governor were the crusading Cardinal Spellman, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, his new young Assistant Secretary Tom Donahue, virtually all the powers of Eastern labor - and a message from the President of the U.S. They had come to honor Sullivan - a labor leader's labor leader who stays out of the headlines but whose influence in the highest labor circles is stronger than even the closest observers know.

Sullivan has just been singularly honored. Pope Paul IV has named him knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory - a distinction never before bestowed on an American labor leader. It is the highest church honor which can be given to a layman.

Gov. Rockefeller was cheered more loudly than any but the guest of honor. That came as he was introduced. A roar went up again when he apologized for leaving because he had to go to a passover seder. Then he raced from the Commodore Hotel to the Waldorf. There he joined in the traditional feast with rabbis and labor leaders who had come at the invitation of Histadrut, the Israeli labor federation.

Once more the cheers hit what passes for rafters in the grand ballroom as he introduced Happy, spoke of his delight with the special soups and food and apologized for coming late because he had just helped Dave Sullivan celebrate at the Catholic gathering.

This was not the Rockefeller of yesteryear. The speech comes smoothly and when he is amongst labor leaders, he almost always knows he is amongst friends.

He comes to their dinners. They go to his. No one need conjecture any longer over the loyalties of hundreds of labor leaders. The New York Republican machine will prove this on June 8 at the big G.O.P. state dinner to which will come Republican leaders from many states.

And sitting amongst them will be officials of at least 60 unions - most of them with built-in political machinery. At no less than $150 a plate. This means they are willingly helping the party raise funds for a campaign - and here there really are no campaigns to speak of between now and 1968.

New York is not the only arena in which the Republican's Eastern establishment has moved into Democratic territory. Not too long ago the militant Pennsylvania AFL-CIO state labor federation ran its eighth constitutional convention. Republican Gov. Raymond Shafer, considered here a "moderate conservative" and an ally of Nelson Rockefeller, spoke and was well received.

With him was his Secretary of Labor and Industry - the state's second largest department. William Hart is on leave of absence from his regional directorship of District 19, United Steelworkers of America.

The entente across the East is built on the theory that there are forces inside labor with which the Republicans can work - and win - just as Mr. Rockefeller's New York county chairman Vince Albano, a banker, proved when he took Manhattan from the Democrats for the first time in history.

None of this indicates an inclination to battle the Western and Southwestern establishments inside the Republican party. Rockefeller knows he can't win or place without it. And his new found ally, former vice-presidential candidate William Miller, is trying to make the twain meet. He was on such a mission in Colorado Springs the other day.

The political arithmetic is against Gov. Rockefeller. But he is certainly trying to prove that it's the old math.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes scored again when the legislature delivered to him a bill authorizing construction of toll roads virtually intact.

Missouri should benefit from this legislation in two ways: Faster, more direct and more economical travel by Missourians from one Missouri city to another. Increased through traffic by out-of-state motorists and more spending by tourists in the state.

This is a large state. Most highways have been built between principal cities - especially through the center of the state east and west.

There is now no good, fast route from Southeast Missouri to Jefferson City or Kansas City. There is none from Kansas City to Northeast Missouri. The state needs good criss cross routes as well as a fast direct north-south thoroughfare. They are not provided by the regular highway network.

Many problems remain. Missouri must be able to sell the revenue bonds to build the toll roads at an interest rate it can afford to pay. A revival of tight money might send it out of reach.

There is a natural concern that if revenues aren't adequate to support toll roads, the regular highway system might suffer. The regular system needs a constantly increasing flow of revenue to construct new roads and maintain existing highways. It cannot be neglected without damaging the state's economy, endangering lives and property.

One of the most heartening aspects of the Hearnes' approach are the feasibility studies that will precede the building of any toll roads.

These studies should disclose whether there is enough need for a road to justify its construction.

The emphasis should be placed on total potential travel and not needs of Missourians alone. For example every Southeast Missouri resident would welcome a direct route to Jefferson City or Kansas City but the final determination should be based on total travel.

The needs of through travelers from out-of-state should not be ignored because their dollar is as good as the Missourian's.

This total need concept should not only determine whether the toll road is economically feasible but it should also be the deciding factor in the selection of the route.

The shortest distance across the state would be more appealing to through travelers although it might not be exactly what Missouri residents desire. The route selection should be based on total travel potential alone, not politics, not Missourian's preference alone or out-of-state traveler preference alone.

All decisions should be based on economic, non-political considerations.

If the toll road law becomes the political football of the governor and the state highway commission it will be the state and Missourians who will suffer in the last analysis.

Let's build toll roads that will be profitable because they are in great demand by all travelers.

Let's make routes through Missouri so inviting to out-of-state travelers that they will want to go through our state. Missouri now often is avoided in favor of highways in adjoining states.

THE CARROT IS A CROPPER

Before too many months go by Missourians will be voting on constitutional amendments that are now being debated and advanced by the current session of the General Assembly.

One of these measures deserves more than passing attention from voters because it points up a growing practice in state government that has been adopted part and parcel, from the sly old politicians in Washington. We are referring to the method of hanging the carrot out for all to see, with something less desirable hidden from general view. In this case, the carrot is the constitutional amendment calling for annual sessions of the General Assembly; the hidden part is a provision that would permit the legislature and not the voters to set a portion of the lawmaker's salary.

The manner in which the annual session amendment has now been written would require the voter to weigh not the merits of the proposed change but weigh, instead, which is the lesser evil.

This is wrong; it is, in our view even being dishonest with the voters.

The amendments to any constitution should be entities within themselves; they should deal with one subject and only one subject. If more amendments are needed, then they should be written and submitted as separate proposals.

This is not the first time the General Assembly has followed the unsavory federal legislative practice of tying lots of loose ends into one package. But it is done not for the sake of neatness but to fool the voter and entice him to accept one needed change while, at the same time, approving something less than needed.

The annual sessions amendment, as now written, calls for a change in the constitution that would also permit the legislature to set salary allowances. In addition, it calls for an increase in legislative employes, a subject that was submitted to the voters only last year.

All three subjects are presently wrapped into one neat amendment.

And the voters will have to decide whether they want annual sessions bad enough to overlook the other provisions.

The legislature is not playing fair with the voters and the legislature knows it. We hope the voters will know it too.

ON BEHALF OF THE SPEAKER

Although none has been raised in recent weeks, we should like to venture just one small voice of defense in behalf of James Godfrey, the first-term Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives. The second most influential man in state government has been having his troubles of late, trying to preserve some degree of decorum in a legislative chamber that traditionally is free and easy with its conduct.

Speaker Godfrey's critics have run the gamut with their charges; he is too lenient, he is too forceful, he is too dictatorial, he lets the members get away with something this side of murder.

Somewhere in between must be the truth.

As any first-termer must, the Speaker appears to be feeling his way, getting acquainted with an important and difficult office he has occupied for less than four months. The Speaker appears to be dealing, too often, with members of the majority party who sometimes feel they are "rubber stamps" for the Democratic leadership and a smaller but more vocal minority party that has nothing to lose from some occasional irresponsible behavior.

What the Speaker's critics have not said, however, is that during the four months of the current legislature, it has been the House and not the Senate that has shown itself to be responsive to the public's needs and responsive to its obligations to meet these needs. During this session it has been the Senate that has for the most part, been willing to let the lower chamber repair its irresponsible behavior, and the House has performed this duty in the manner the voters expect.

Part of the responsibility, if not much of it, can be traced to the Speaker, who obviously has tried to strike a happy balance between a dictator with a gavel and a too-lenient observer of House proceedings. Perhaps Speaker Godfrey's critics should examine the overall record of the House before throwing out harsh reprimands that are of second importance to a first-rate legislative record.

NEW YORK (AP) — Science has made considerable progress lately in learning the languages of such birds as the crow and such beasties as the dolphin.

What it should set out to decipher next is the language of women. That would really do civilization a favor.

However, it is unlikely that science will ever accomplish this feat. Women don't want anyone to solve their language. It is the real secret of the legendary mystery of their sex.

There is a fundamental and inescapable difference in the employment of language by man and woman.

A man uses language to say what's on his mind. To a woman, this is incredibly naive. She uses language to say what isn't on her mind.

Except when she loses her temper and thereby reveals herself inadvertently, a woman opens her mouth only to plead the 5th Amendment. Her conversation is a camouflage to protect herself and her motives.

Nothing about his wife puzzles a new husband more than her enigmatic use of language. The marriage really begins to succeed only when he begins dimly to perceive that she rarely says what she means and rarely means what she says.

Once that happens he can usually manage to get along with her very well.

He knows that when she asks him if he feels chilly she really means, "Go close the window, Dopey; I'm cold."

He knows that when she asks, "Do you care for any more meat?" what she really means is, "Pass the platter, Buster; can't you see I'm starving?"

He knows that when she says, "It's so nice out, shall we walk?" what she really means is, "My feet have been hurting for hours—so go call a taxi, Big Stupid."

Even a veteran husband, no matter how accustomed he gets to a wife's upside down use of language, can't quite adjust himself to her use of the words "never" and "always."

For example, if he hasn't taken her out for a week, she tells him, "You never take me out anymore." If he forgets an anniversary once, she tells him forever after, "You never remember our anniversary."

A situation that befell a friend of mine may serve to illustrate the wifely use of the word "always."

In 1935, as he was turning at an intersection, another car brushed against his and dented his fender.

"For 32 years since then," he told me mournfully, "every time we have approached that intersection my wife has grabbed me by the sleeve and said, 'Be careful. Remember, you always have an accident here.'"

There are some more things I could tell you about how wives use language. But why should I? In this field every husband has to learn how to interpret his own babbling brook.

"I never did. My girl friend out in the car's got em!"

Last year, for the first time in more than a decade, the general unemployment rate in the country averaged below 4%. President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers regards this as "essentially full employment." The Council states its expectation that unemployment will remain at the same low level in 1967, and by implication at least, rejects the notion that we should strive for even lower unemployment rates.

Mr. Walter Reuther has roundly criticized the Council for what he calls "this attitude of complacent self - satisfaction." In his view, unemployment of 4% is much too high and national economic policy must be directed toward reducing it.

In this kind of controversy there is an element that must puzzle the general public. Just how do we decide whether 4% -- or any other figure -- is the "right" level of unemployment in our kind of society?

Clearly the reduction of unemployment to zero is an impossible and undesirable objective. As long as people are free to change their employment, there will be a certain number of them between jobs at any time. And the operation of a dynamic economy requires that new and expanding enterprises have some source of available manpower to draw on.

Gut ruling out zero as the unemployment objective still leaves us with the question: Should it be 3%, 4%, 5% -- or what? Mr. Reuther's chief statistical argument for an objective substantially below 4% is the fact that lower unemployment rates have prevailed in practically all the other industrial countries of the world.

Other countries collect their unemployment figures by methods different from those used in the U.S. But even when adjustments are made for these technical differences, it appears to be a fact that unemployment rates in such other countries as Britain, France, Germany and Japan have been well below 4% in recent years.

But this still doesn't settle the question of the proper unemployment objective in the U.S. There are reasons for expecting a somewhat higher unemployment rate here. We have a less homogeneous labor force than other countries -- the range of abilities, habits, attitudes, etc., is wider here than elsewhere. And our population is accustomed to moving about more than the people in other countries -- both geographically and occupationally. Our business enterprises are subject to more sudden changes in fortune than those in other lands. Employment in any given establishment is likely to vary more here, since we prefer competition to the "live and let live" philosophy. Consumer tastes seem to change more frequently and more eratically than in other parts of the world. New products are introduced more frequently here with unpredictable results for particular businesses.

All these factors are an indication of the greater dynamism of the American economy. An economy with these characteristics needs more elbow-room than the more stable economies of other countries. And a somewhat higher level of unemployment is an inescapable aspect of this greater elbow-room. It is a sign of freedom, growth, and adaptability to a changing world.

So Mr. Reuther's comparison of U.S. unemployment rates with those of other countries doesn't prove that 4% is too high as our national objective. No one should be dogmatic in naming some one number as the proper unemployment goal for all time. All we can say is that, under present circumstances, an attempt to reduce unemployment well below the rate which prevailed in 1966 would pose rather serious threats to price stability and economic efficiency.

BOOM DAYS FOR KNOW-HOWS

The day of the rugged business individualist, the man who runs his company like a tight ship with himself as all-powerful captain, is ending in America. Power is passing from the individual corporate president or chairman of the board to the expert groups further down in his firm, observes famed Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith.

"Never again will the average, informed person know the name of the current head of Ford or Standard Oil," he says. "The latter, like all others, will have to produce his driving license when paying by check."

Where once the names of the great bankers - Cooke, Gould, Morgan, Mellon - were part of the American folklore, today there are few bankers whose names are known outside the financial community. Fame today requires that a financier "collect modern art, have Japanese wrestlers perform in the lobby, or stage Ping-Pong contests in the street."

The control of business enterprises has become collegial, says Galbraith. It is based on expert knowledge much as earlier generations of power were based on land or capital.

Power lies with the individuals who possess knowledge, not connections with the finncial community. If their knowledge is particular and strategic, their power becomes very great - not as individuals, however, but as part of the decision - making group.

There is a popular tendency to think of groups or committees as inefficient. Not so, says the economist.

"Highly paid men, when sitting around a table as a committee, are not necessarily wasting more time in the aggregate than each would waste all by himself."

It would be nice to think that this is as true in Washington as in Wall Street.

FOOT-DEEP IN FLIES

In one summer session, from April to August, the descendants of one pair of houseflies, if all lived and reproduced normally, could total 197 quintillion, the Catholic Digest states. That is enough to cover the surface of the entire earth to a depth of more than one foot.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., for 32 years considered the no. 1 champion on labor, last week got a message from the AFL-CIO, relayed through his assistant, Bill Berg, calling Morse a "strikebreaker".

"We'll have to re-assess our support given you in the past," was the message.

"I'm not going to be blackmailed on legislation," was the reply Morse sent back. "Tell them to go to hell."

The AFL-CIO message was prompted by the fact that Morse introduced the President's bill to mediate the current railroad - labor dispute, giving both sides 90 days to come to terms.

"I had much to do with drafting that bill," says Morse very frankly. "Labor is attacking it as compulsory arbitration, but if people read it they'll find that it's not compulsory arbitration, it's extended collective bargaining and mediation leading to finality."

The bill calls for 30 days in which a mediation panel will mediate between both sides; a second 30 days in which the board writes its report and sends it to congress; a third 30 - day period in which the two sides are given a chance to reach an agreement.

If they do not reach an agreement within the above 90 days, then, on the 91st day, the report becomes final; and the railroads are forced to operate under the terms of the report, while railroad labor is forced to accept those terms up to not more than two years.

MORSE'S LONG RECORD

Morse served as chairman of the war labor board during World War II. He is probably the no. 1 labor mediation expert in the United States. In the past 32 years he has mediated more labor disputes than any other man in the country, including the recent airplane mechanics strike, the Longshoremen's strike, a previous rail strike, and the steel strike.

Morse points out that compulsory arbitration is a 100 per cent judicial process, in which the arbiter sits in the same role as a judge, weighing the preponderance of evidence. If either side fails to make a case under the preponderance of the evidence, that side loses.

In contrast, the proposed law to settle the current railroad dispute, Morse points out, provides that the panel of mediators must be bound by the framework of the proposals by each party.

"The right to strike in a national emergency," says the senator from Oregon, "is a relative right. The public has a superior right -- namely, the right to be protected in time of war. I am not for the war in Vietnam. I have been against it. Nevertheless the war is taking place, and men are dying in it. They have a right to have supplies; and no union has a right to upset the shipment of those supplies."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., is proposing the seizure of the railroads as a settlement. Other senators have various other proposals. It will be a long and bitter debate. But Morse says he will stand firm that "the American people have a right to be protected, even if I am called a strikebreaker."

LBJ AND HARRY TRUMAN

Those who deal with LBJ from day to day are sometimes flabbergasted at the pains to which he will go to do little things for people.

On Harry Truman's recent 83rd birthday, Wilbur Cohen, deputy secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, recalled how two years earlier, when the first medicare bill was to be signed, he had received a call from the White House. LBJ himself was on the phone.

"How many people would we have to take to Kansas City to sign this bill down in Harry Truman's library?" he asked.

Cohen replied that there were about 300 people involved in helping to pass the medicare bill, all of whom should be invited to participate in the final ceremony. The list included George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, and Andy Biemiller, top AFL-CIO lobbyist on Capitol Hill, both of whom had swung a lot of votes for medicare. And there were a lot of other labor leaders, doctors, senators, congressmen and friends of the elderly.

"We've got only two planes," the President said. "And they'll hold about 100."

That seemed to veto having the bill signed in Kansas City.

But Secretary Cohen's phone rang again.

"Wilbur," said the President, "I want you to see what you can do about shaving that list down. Harry Truman was the man who first introduced the medicare bill. He worked hard for it when the going was tough. He may not be with us too much longer. We ought to try to sign this bill down there where he can participate. You come over here, Wilbur, and see what you can do about the list."

Wilbur Cohen went over to the White House, helped arrange private transportation for some of the distinguished guests. The bill was signed in Independence, Mo., with Harry Truman happily looking on.

HIRING SUMMER STUDENTS

A lot of companies all over the USA are doing their best to hire students for the summer under the President's youth opportunity campaign.

They range from the Northern Virginia Board of Realtors, which has placed students in branch offices of the Virginia Employment Commission to help fellow students find jobs, to American Foresight, Inc., of Philadelphia, which hires all college students who apply. These students sell cookware for eleven weeks during the summer, with guaranteed income of $500 for the season. Some students have earned as much as $4,000 in one summer. American Foresight also offers college scholarships to its summer employees.

Doc. Duncan Says

Read an article written by a man who had spent some time in Vietnam. He is of the opinion we are in World War No. 3 now. Come to think of it that is very possible. The incident may keep on expanding as it has in the past and Asians keep feeding men just as our side can take care of them until our side sees they have been led into a trap. Then in desperation use nuclear military power in a scorched earth policy. Guess we all know what that will call for.

H. L. Hunt Says

NOT A PARTISAN PLAN

A current issue of the utmost importance is the need for reform of the Electoral College System of choosing the President of the United States. This is a non-partisan issue, concerning Democrats, Republicans and independents alike, and a non-partisan plan has been put forward to meet it.

This is the Congressional District Reform Plan - rapidly coming to be known by the simplified title of CONDIRP. The plan provides for the people to choose by ballot one presidential elector from their congressional district and two electors at large from the entire state. Each candidate for President and Vice President would then be represented by one or more local citizens seeking the post of elector in their names.

The electors would be required, in advance of election day, to pledge their votes for the candidates of their choice for President and Vice President. They then would be bound to cast their votes for these avowed candidates.

CONDIRP would preserve the equal power of each individual's vote no matter where the voter lives. That is the big difference from the present system. Today the party whose candidates receive the majority of votes in a state is awarded all the electoral votes held by that state. This is the case even should one candidate receive no more than 100 votes, or five votes or even one vote less than his opponent.

The present system gives too much power to political machines operating in the mid-city sections of our metropolitan areas. CONDIRP proposes to correct this imbalance so urgently needed. HLH.

Rockefeller's Labor-Political Machine Moving West

NEW YORK - The other Saturday night was hardly the loneliest night in the week for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his lady, Happy. For a non-candidate, Mr. Rockefeller did some mighty swift hotel-hopping and banquet bantering - and all before labor audiences.

To the politically sophisticated who raced in his wake, there no longer was any doubt of either his drive for the Republican presidential nomination or the strategic pattern of his campaign. The "Eastern establishment", now reaching through and past Pennsylvania, was proving that it could successfully crack the Democrats' big city vote - especially on the labor front - even if Lyndon Johnson does stand for re-election.

On that Saturday night, April 29, the governor and his lady first made an early appearance at an overcrowded banquet honoring AFL-CIO vice-president David Sullivan, leader of the politically influential Building Service Employes International Union.

On the dais with the governor were the crusading Cardinal Spellman, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, his new young Assistant Secretary Tom Donahue, virtually all the powers of Eastern labor - and a message from the President of the U.S. They had come to honor Sullivan - a labor leader's labor leader who stays out of the headlines but whose influence in the highest labor circles is stronger than even the closest observers know.

Sullivan has just been singularly honored. Pope Paul IV has named him knight commander of the Order of St. Gregory - a distinction never before bestowed on an American labor leader. It is the highest church honor which can be given to a layman.

Gov. Rockefeller was cheered more loudly than any but the guest of honor. That came as he was introduced. A roar went up again when he apologized for leaving because he had to go to a passover seder. Then he raced from the Commodore Hotel to the Waldorf. There he joined in the traditional feast with rabbis and labor leaders who had come at the invitation of Histadrut, the Israeli labor federation.

Once more the cheers hit what passes for rafters in the grand ballroom as he introduced Happy, spoke of his delight with the special soups and food and apologized for coming late because he had just helped Dave Sullivan celebrate at the Catholic gathering.

This was not the Rockefeller of yesteryear. The speech comes smoothly and when he is amongst labor leaders, he almost always knows he is amongst friends.

He comes to their dinners. They go to his. No one need conjecture any longer over the loyalties of hundreds of labor leaders. The New York Republican machine will prove this on June 8 at the big G.O.P. state dinner to which will come Republican leaders from many states.

And sitting amongst them will be officials of at least 60 unions - most of them with built-in political machinery. At no less than $150 a plate. This means they are willingly helping the party raise funds for a campaign - and here there really are no campaigns to speak of between now and 1968.

New York is not the only arena in which the Republican's Eastern establishment has moved into Democratic territory. Not too long ago the militant Pennsylvania AFL-CIO state labor federation ran its eighth constitutional convention. Republican Gov. Raymond Shafer, considered here a "moderate conservative" and an ally of Nelson Rockefeller, spoke and was well received.

With him was his Secretary of Labor and Industry - the state's second largest department. William Hart is on leave of absence from his regional directorship of District 19, United Steelworkers of America.

The entente across the East is built on the theory that there are forces inside labor with which the Republicans can work - and win - just as Mr. Rockefeller's New York county chairman Vince Albano, a banker, proved when he took Manhattan from the Democrats for the first time in history.

None of this indicates an inclination to battle the Western and Southwestern establishments inside the Republican party. Rockefeller knows he can't win or place without it. And his new found ally, former vice-presidential candidate William Miller, is trying to make the twain meet. He was on such a mission in Colorado Springs the other day.

The political arithmetic is against Gov. Rockefeller. But he is certainly trying to prove that it's the old math.

THE PERFECT ASSIST

I thought my heart would break the day after we took our four-year-old physically and mentally handicapped daughters to an institution. The morning dragged by. Every glimpse of a familiar object connnected with Helen's care brought on a fresh siege of weeping. No one called. no neighbor stopped in.

After lunch I stepped out onto the porch to collect the mail. There, on the step, lay seven huge pink peonies. As I straightended up, my arms full of blooms, I looked across the street at two small peony bushes, planted the fall before by my newest neighbor. They were stripped, their beauty given in sympathy to me. My sorrow began its long healing as I turned back into the house.

Meat Prices Up This Week

NEW YORK AP - Meat prices jumped this week. It may be a long summer before consumers see price tags as low as those last winter.

Prices on the live cattle and hog markets the past two weeks have soared. Midwestern farmers, busy with spring chores, have been shipping smaller supplies to market.

A New York supermarket chain raised pork chop prices 10 cents a pound this week. Pork cuts are generally 2 cents a pound higher on the West Coast.

Beef prices are up 1 to 3 cents a pound along the West Coast. Rib roasts may be on special in the Midwest.

Chicken prices are down 14 cents a pound in the New York area. Broilers, fryers and turkeys may be featured in the Northeast, Midwest and Southwest.

Egg prices are up 1 cent a dozen in San Francisco and Portland, Ore., this week, and medium-sized eggs are 2 cents higher at a major chain in the New York area. But prices still are low, and eggs are being promoted heavily at many stores.

Some canners have raised the price of orange juice, in the wake of the drought in Florida.

April was a washout in California. Tomato plantings had to be put off, and the combination of rains, frost and the worst hail damage in recent years cut the raisin crop an estimated 10 to 20 per cent. Apricots look poor, peaches are two weeks late, and prunes suffered some damage.

One of the sorority houses at the southwest college that I attended was noted, more than anything else, for its overly prudish housemother, Miss Virginia Byron. She enforced curfew regulations like an old army sergeant, gave constant moral lectures, and when it came to her attention that the large oleander bushes in front of the sorority were being used by the young daters for long, amorous good-night kisses, she had the bushes all chopped down.

This latter action proved too much for one prankish male student. In the dead of night he placed a large hand-lettered sign on the now barren lawn in front of the sorority house. It read, simply: Miss Virginia Byron's Birth Control Center.

THE PERFECT ASSIST

I thought my heart would break the day after we took our four-year-old physically and mentally handicapped daughters to an institution. The morning dragged by. Every glimpse of a familiar object connnected with Helen's care brought on a fresh siege of weeping. No one called. no neighbor stopped in.

After lunch I stepped out onto the porch to collect the mail. There, on the step, lay seven huge pink peonies. As I straightended up, my arms full of blooms, I looked across the street at two small peony bushes, planted the fall before by my newest neighbor. They were stripped, their beauty given in sympathy to me. My sorrow began its long healing as I turned back into the house.

Meat Prices Up This Week

NEW YORK AP -- Meat prices jumped this week. It may be a long summer before consumers see price tags as low as those last winter.

Prices on the live cattle and hog markets the past two weeks have soared. Midwestern farmers, busy with spring chores, have been shipping smaller supplies to market.

A New York supermarket chain raised pork chop prices 10 cents a pound this week. Pork cuts are generally 2 cents a pound higher on the West Coast.

Beef prices are up 1 to 3 cents a pound along the West Coast. Rib roasts may be on special in the Midwest.

Chicken prices are down 14 cents a pound in the New York area. Broilers, fryers and turkeys may be featured in the Northeast, Midwest and Southwest.

Egg prices are up 1 cent a dozen in San Francisco and Portland, Ore., this week, and medium-sized eggs are 2 cents higher at a major chain in the New York area. But prices still are low, and eggs are being promoted heavily at many stores.

Some canners have raised the price of orange juice, in the wake of the drought in Florida.

April was a washout in California. Tomato plantings had to be put off, and the combination of rains, frost and the worst hail damage in recent years cut the raisin crop an estimated 10 to 20 per cent. Apricots look poor, peaches are two weeks late, and prunes suffered some damage.

MONDAY
The Junior Woman's club will have its annual mother-daughter banquet and installation of officers at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Holiday Inn.

One of the sorority houses at the southwest college that I attended was noted, more than anything else, for its overly prudish housemother, Miss Virginia Byron. She enforced curfew regulations like an old army sergeant, gave constant moral lectures, and when it came to her attention that the large oleander bushes in front of the sorority were being used by the young daters for long, amorous good-night kisses, she had the bushes all chopped down.

This latter action proved too much for one prankish male student. In the dead of night he placed a large hand-lettered sign on the now barren lawn in front of the sorority house. It read, simply: Miss Virginia Byron's Birth Control Center.

Bulldogs End '67 Campaign With 4-1 Win Over CapeND

Sikeston's Bulldogs closed out their 1967 baseball campaign by edging Cape Notre Dame 4-1 at VFW stadium yesterday afternoon.

Senior Rudy Manley, playing his last game in a Sikeston high uniform, collected the victory by pitching a two hitter. He struck out 12 and walked five.

It was an all - senior lineup except for Bruce Farris and Mike Garner, and it was the seniors who collected the blows for the Dogs.

Senior Terry Scudder celebrated his last day in a Sikeston high uniform by blasting a home run over the left field fence and followed with a triple before driving the left fielder back to the fence for an out.

Scudder's home run was one of the longest ever hit out of VFW stadium, and his triple, hit to center, was one of the longest clouts hit to that part of the field.

Sikeston trailed after the Notre Dame top of the second inning as Notre Dame scored on one hit, an error and a stolen base. Both teams went scoreless in the first.

Greg Flaker started on the mound for the visiting Bulldogs. Sikeston threatened to score in the first inning, and Scudder tied the score in the second inning with one swing of the bat after the first batter and struck out.

The Dogs threatened to score again in the second as Matthews, who walked after Scudder's home, advanced to third on a base hit by Dan Spears and a fielder's choice by Larry Lancaster, who forced Spears at second base for the second out. The inning ended as Greg Bailey grounded out to the second baseman.

Manley had little trouble in his next five innings of hurling as he checked the visitors on one hit, that coming in the sixth inning.

Sikeston's final runs came in the third innings when senior Wayne Limbaugh reached first on an error. Mike Garner followed with a base hit moving Limbaugh to second.

Bruce Farris advanced Limbaugh to third with a base hit as Garner was picked off at second. Manley collected an RBI with a hit, and Scudder followed with his second hit of the afternoon, a triple to the center field wall for two RBI's and a Sikeston lead of 4-1.

The following seniors played their last game for SHS: Greg Bailey, Terry Scudder, Rudy Manley, Dan Spears, Wayne Limbaugh, Steve Matthews and Larry Lancaster.

Four were starters in all 11 Bulldog games. Sikeston ended the season with a 9-2 won-loss mark.

Ray Thorpe On Verge Of Equalling Two MU Records

COLUMBIA - Ray Thorpe, the Big Eight's hottest hitter, is on the verge of equalling two school records as Missouri's baseball team tangles with Iowa State at Ames this weekend.

With six games left, the 5-ft. 7 1/2 Tiger outfielder can tie or surpass the one-season highs of triples (5) and stolen bases (16). Thorpe now has four triples and 15 steals. His front-running mark in the conference bat race is .429.

Runnerup Missouri (9-6) lags 2 1/2 games behind Oklahoma State (10-2), with the Cowboys in a highly tenable spot. M.U. simply has to keep winning... and hoping...that Colorado can chop into the Pokes' sizable bulge at Boulder this weekend.

Iowa State (7-8) though, has won five of its last six games and is a tough hurdle for Missouri at Ames. Seldom does any visiting club sweep a Big Eight series - and Missouri now can't afford another defeat.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons will pitch Mike McFarland (3-1) in the Friday opener - and Jerry Hurt (6-0) and Kelly Whitaker (2-1) on Saturday. Hurt, a junior, owns the best earned run average at 1.40.

Missouri's lineup now has stabilized to the point that the Tigers played without error in three one-run victories over Oklahoma. Del Blunk's shift from centerfield to shortstop has firmed up the defense.

Baseball Cuts

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitchers hurling shutout baseball and veteran hitters batting over .300 were among the cut-down casualties, but the biggest sparks may fly from the optioning of a rookie hitting .194.

He is first baseman Mike Epstein, touted as a future superstar, optioned by Baltimore to their Rochester farm club before Wednesday night's major league deadline to reach the 25-player limit.

"Mike said he was very disappointed and might not report to Rochester," said Oriole Manager Hank Bauer.

Epstein, 24, the minor league Player of the Year at Rochester last season, declined comment after meeting with Bauer and Harry Dalton, Baltimore director of player personnel.

"I pointed out the opportunities to him," Dalton said, "but it's his career and it's his decision."

Among those once highly publicized veterans to get pink slips were Ralph Terry, Bill Monbouquette, Gordy Coleman, Manny Jimenez and Bob Buhl.

Atlanta hospitalized ace right-hander Tony Cloninger, 1-1, for an indefinite period. The former 20-game winner, who has not pitched since April 26 because of a pulled back muscle and a virus infection, is suffering from an eye problem.

The Los Angeles Dodgers traded infilder John Werhas to the California Angels for outfielder Len Gabrielson and the New York Mets purchased third baseman Ed Charles from Kansas City for $60,000 and minor league outfielder Larry Elliot. The Mets also bought utility infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher John Miller from Baltimore.

Epstein was unable to beat out Boog Powell at first base with the Orioles and Curt Blefary in the outfield, and Baltimore was unable to trade him when other teams would not meet its price. He had only two singles in 13 at bats.

"If he fails to report," Dalton said, "He'll be placed on the inactive list."

Coleman, 32, a first baseman, was optioned to Buffalo after seven years with Cincinnati. He helped the Reds to the pennant in 1961 when he hit .287, had 26 homers and 87 runs batted in.

Jimenez, 28, a sensation with Kansas City in 1962 when he led the league part of the season, was returned to the minors by Pittsburgh despite his homer and double in six at-bats.

Championship Of Western Division Of OVC To Murray

MURRAY, Ky. -- The Murray State baseball team, aided by an Austin Peay win over Middle Tennessee, is the champion of the Western Division of the Ohio Valley Conference with a 9-1 record.

A doubleheader with Middle Tennessee, scheduled for Murray last Saturday, was rained out and may not be rescheduled since its results would not affect conference standings.

Going into a game with Southeast Missouri today the Racers were 19-5 for the season. They will conclude their regular season with a game at Lambuth College Monday. The playoff for the OVC championship will be May 19 and 20 at the home field of the Eastern Division winner.

Eastern Kentucky is currently in the lead in the Eastern Division with a 4-3 record. Morehead and East Tennessee are tied for second place at 5-5 and Tennessee Tech is 3-4. Eastern has a doubleheader scheduled with East Tennessee Saturday, a doubleheader with Tennessee Tech Monday, and a single game with Tech Tuesday. Eastern is defending OVC champion. The Colonels beat Murray two games to one in last year's playoff.

Ward leads in RBI's with 23. Ryan has 21 and Wally Andzel 17.

Don Lee has won 7 and lost 1 to head the pitching staff. Rodney Pryer is 4-0, and Davie Gourieux 4-2.

The Racers are batting .278 as a team to their opponent's .196 and fielding .965 to their opponents' .929.

Netmen End Season Over .500 Mark

By Charles Stamp

The Sikeston Bulldog tennis team finished its 1967 campaign last Friday in the district match at Cape Girardeau. The boys posted a record of five wins against four losses under the coaching of Earl Richmond.

The netmen lost their first two matches to Caruthersville and Kennett, but bounced back with a decisive victory against the Poplar Bluff Mules.

Bret Baker, District singles champion, helped Kennett to defeat the Dogs for the third loss. The Bulldogs then took revenge on the Tigers of Caruthersville with a 5-3 victory.

The final defeat of the year went to the Cape Central Tigers at Sikeston. The netmen then went on to win their last three matches. The Dogs downed Chaffee, Cape Central and Poplar Bluff.

In the SEMO district competition, Bill Dickerson and Hank Lippert advanced to the quarterfinals, and the doubles team of Wythe Miller and Bob McCord went into the semi-finals. Both lost to the tourney champions from Bonne Terre.

In Sikeston singles competition throughout the year, junior Wythe Miller started in the number one position in the majority of the meets. Wythe had trouble getting started and finished with three wins against six losses.

Junior Bob McCord was the number two man. McCord compiled a record of four wins and five defeats.

Hank Lippert and Bill Dickerson both finished over the .500 mark with five wins and four defeats. Brad Crumpecker wound up with three wins and three losses, and Ron Hill finished with four wins against one loss.

In the doubles bracket, Miller and McCord were 3-6, Lippert and Dickerson 4-4, and Crumpecker and Hill 2-1 record.

Coach Richmond should have a fine team next year with the return of Miller, McCord, Crumpecker and some fine looking sophomores.

Oran Wins District

STE. GENEVIEVE -- Oran pushed across five runs in the seventh inning for a 6-5 victory over Rolla in the state baseball playoffs last night.

Lewis had little trouble collecting two outs and was one away from victory when Garon Hanley blasted a double, driving in a run. Lewis walked the next four batters, walking in two runs and held a 5-4 lead when reliefer Larry Riden was called in.

Riden gave up a single to Doug Hanley for two RBI's and the district victory. Hanley had a 2-2 count on Hanley, who hit the next pitch to right for his single.

Tim Halter was the winning pitcher with a five hitter. He collected 15 strikeouts. Lewis gave up six hits and collected six strikeouts.

Garon Hanley was the Eagles leading hitter for the night, collecting two doubles in three times at bat.

Bulldogs End '67 Campaign With 4-1 Win Over CapeND

Sikeston's Bulldogs closed out their 1967 baseball campaign by edging Cape Notre Dame 4-1 at VFW stadium yesterday afternoon.

Senior Rudy Manley, playing his last game in a Sikeston high uniform, collected the victory by pitching a two hitter. He struck out 12 and walked five.

It was an all - senior lineup except for Bruce Farris and Mike Garner, and it was the seniors who collected the blows for the Dogs.

Senior Terry Scudder celebrated his last day in a Sikeston high uniform by blasting a home run over the left field fence and followed with a triple before driving the left fielder back to the fence for an out.

Scudder's home run was one of the longest ever hit out of VFW stadium, and his triple, hit to center, was one of the longest clouts hit to that part of the field.

Sikeston trailed after the Notre Dame top of the second inning as Notre Dame scored on one hit, an error and a stolen base. Both teams went scoreless in the first.

Greg Flaker started on the mound for the visiting Bulldogs. Sikeston threatened to score in the first inning, and Scudder tied the score in the second inning with one swing of the bat after the first batter and struck out.

The Dogs threatened to score again in the second as Matthews, who walked after Scudder's home, advanced to third on a base hit by Dan Spears and a fielder's choice by Larry Lancaster, who forced Spears at second base for the second out. The inning ended as Greg Bailey grounded out to the second baseman.

Manley had little trouble in his next five innings of hurling as he checked the visitors on one hit, that coming in the sixth inning.

Sikeston's final runs came in the third innings when senior Wayne Limbaugh reached first on an error. Mike Garner followed with a base hit moving Limbaugh to second.

Bruce Farris advanced Limbaugh to third with a base hit as Garner was picked off at second. Manley collected an RBI with a hit, and Scudder followed with his second hit of the afternoon, a triple to the center field wall for two RBI's and a Sikeston lead of 4-1.

The following seniors played their last game for SHS: Greg Bailey, Terry Scudder, Rudy Manley, Dan Spears, Wayne Limbaugh, Steve Matthews and Larry Lancaster.

Four were starters in all 11 Bulldog games. Sikeston ended the season with a 9-2 won-loss mark.

Ray Thorpe On Verge Of Equalling Two MU Records

COLUMBIA - Ray Thorpe, the Big Eight's hottest hitter, is on the verge of equalling two school records as Missouri's baseball team tangles with Iowa State at Ames this weekend.

With six games left, the 5-ft. 7 1/2 Tiger outfielder can tie or surpass the one-season highs of triples (5) and stolen bases (16). Thorpe now has four triples and 15 steals. His front-running mark in the conference bat race is .429.

Runnerup Missouri (9-6) lags 2 1/2 games behind Oklahoma State (10-2), with the Cowboys in a highly tenable spot. M.U. simply has to keep winning... and hoping...that Colorado can chop into the Pokes' sizable bulge at Boulder this weekend.

Iowa State (7-8) though, has won five of its last six games and is a tough hurdle for Missouri at Ames. Seldom does any visiting club sweep a Big Eight series - and Missouri now can't afford another defeat.

Coach John (Hi) Simmons will pitch Mike McFarland (3-1) in the Friday opener - and Jerry Hurt (6-0) and Kelly Whitaker (2-1) on Saturday. Hurt, a junior, owns the best earned run average at 1.40.

Missouri's lineup now has stabilized to the point that the Tigers played without error in three one-run victories over Oklahoma. Del Blunk's shift from centerfield to shortstop has firmed up the defense.

Baseball Cuts

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitchers hurling shutout baseball and veteran hitters batting over .300 were among the cut-down casualties, but the biggest sparks may fly from the optioning of a rookie hitting .194.

He is first baseman Mike Epstein, touted as a future superstar, optioned by Baltimore to their Rochester farm club before Wednesday night's major league deadline to reach the 25-player limit.

"Mike said he was very disappointed and might not report to Rochester," said Oriole Manager Hank Bauer.

Epstein, 24, the minor league Player of the Year at Rochester last season, declined comment after meeting with Bauer and Harry Dalton, Baltimore director of player personnel.

"I pointed out the opportunities to him," Dalton said, "but it's his career and it's his decision."

Among those once highly publicized veterans to get pink slips were Ralph Terry, Bill Monbouquette, Gordy Coleman, Manny Jimenez and Bob Buhl.

Atlanta hospitalized ace right-hander Tony Cloninger, 1-1, for an indefinite period. The former 20-game winner, who has not pitched since April 26 because of a pulled back muscle and a virus infection, is suffering from an eye problem.

The Los Angeles Dodgers traded infilder John Werhas to the California Angels for outfielder Len Gabrielson and the New York Mets purchased third baseman Ed Charles from Kansas City for $60,000 and minor league outfielder Larry Elliot. The Mets also bought utility infielder Bob Johnson and pitcher John Miller from Baltimore.

Epstein was unable to beat out Boog Powell at first base with the Orioles and Curt Blefary in the outfield, and Baltimore was unable to trade him when other teams would not meet its price. He had only two singles in 13 at bats.

"If he fails to report," Dalton said, "He'll be placed on the inactive list."

Coleman, 32, a first baseman, was optioned to Buffalo after seven years with Cincinnati. He helped the Reds to the pennant in 1961 when he hit .287, had 26 homers and 87 runs batted in.

Jimenez, 28, a sensation with Kansas City in 1962 when he led the league part of the season, was returned to the minors by Pittsburgh despite his homer and double in six at-bats.

Championship Of Western Division Of OVC To Murray

MURRAY, Ky. -- The Murray State baseball team, aided by an Austin Peay win over Middle Tennessee, is the champion of the Western Division of the Ohio Valley Conference with a 9-1 record.

A doubleheader with Middle Tennessee, scheduled for Murray last Saturday, was rained out and may not be rescheduled since its results would not affect conference standings.

Going into a game with Southeast Missouri today the Racers were 19-5 for the season. They will conclude their regular season with a game at Lambuth College Monday. The playoff for the OVC championship will be May 19 and 20 at the home field of the Eastern Division winner.

Eastern Kentucky is currently in the lead in the Eastern Division with a 4-3 record. Morehead and East Tennessee are tied for second place at 5-5 and Tennessee Tech is 3-4. Eastern has a doubleheader scheduled with East Tennessee Saturday, a doubleheader with Tennessee Tech Monday, and a single game with Tech Tuesday. Eastern is defending OVC champion. The Colonels beat Murray two games to one in last year's playoff.

Ward leads in RBI's with 23. Ryan has 21 and Wally Andzel 17.

Don Lee has won 7 and lost 1 to head the pitching staff. Rodney Pryer is 4-0, and Davie Gourieux 4-2.

The Racers are batting .278 as a team to their opponent's .196 and fielding .965 to their opponents' .929.

Social Security Pay Increases

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A total of $513,792,000 in social security benefits was paid to residents of Missouri last year, up 9 per cent from the year before.

At the end of 1966, 4,352 men, women, and children in Scott county were receiving benefits at a monthly rate of $58.00, Clifford W. Forsee, social security district manager, reported today.

Of these, 3,044 were older people, he said, receiving benefits as retired workers, the wives and husbands of retired workers and as the surviving widows or aged dependent parents of workers who have died.

"But social security is not just for older people," Forsee pointed out, adding that 768 young widows and children in Scott county were receiving benefits monthly amounting to $37,667. at the end of December, and 540 disabled workers and dependents were receiving benefits at a monthly rate of $56.00.

"Practically every young family in Scott county has survivors protection under social security that can be worth $75,000 or more, and equally valuable disability insurance protection.

Monthly payments to the family of a worker who dies, leaving two or more children, can range from $66 to $368 a month, depending on the worker's average earnings under social security.

Social security survivors benefits, Forsee said, can be paid to the family of a young man who has worked and paid social security contributions for as little as 1 1/2 years during the three years before his death.

Benefits to the mother and children continue until the youngest child reaches 18, or indefinitely, if the child has a disability which began before his 18th birthday and makes it impossible for him to work and become self-supporting. Under a change in the law enacted in 1965, a child's benefits can be continued up until age 22 if he or she continues in school.

Dexter Chamber Hears Miller

Reports were given by the dues and membership committee Bob Robins of the Junior Chamber of Commerce reported on the progress of the new swimming pool.

MOBILE SOCIETY

Over 35 million Americans move each year. About six million move out of state; another six million cross county lines.

Alfalfa Weevils Spread in State

COLUMBIA -- Alfalfa weevils have been found in 11 additional counties as they continue to move north and westward in the state, Gene Munson, survey entomologist for the University of Missouri extension division, reports.

The insect, which can destroy an alfalfa crop, was found in Boone, Howard, Cooper, Moniteau, Morgan, Dent, Laclede, Dallas, Webster, McDonald, and Newton counties.

The pest was first discovered in Southeast Missouri in 1964 and is now established in 61 counties of the state.

Now that it has been found in McDonald and Newton counties the alfalfa weevil has traveled across the state to the Oklahoma and Kansas Lines.

All new infestations were very light, except for Laclede county, Munson reported. The alfalfa weevil larvae are causing some damage to fields in Laclede county.

Normally damage of economic importance can be expected two to three years after the first insect is found in a county, he said.

Both adult weevils and larvae are causing damage in the southeastern counties. However cool temperatures have slowed the development of the insects, Munson said.

In the heavily infested areas, early harvesting can produce higher quality hay with less weevil damage. In these areas it will be important to spray the stubble following the first cutting to enable the new growth to start without weevil injury, he reported.

Information on spray applications for control can be obtained at local university extension centers.

A new publication which describes the insect and its control is available at the extension centers.

Vegetarianism

Vegetarianism is believed by those who practice it to be a solution to the food problems of the world due to the population explosion. It is said that a meat eater requires two acres of land to produce his food, while a vegetarian requires only three-quarters of an acre.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The remaining weeks of school will be busy for all: students, teachers, all school employees, and we are sure that parents are equally busy in seeing that their children meet schedules, make all commitments, participate in the many academic and extra-curricular affairs relating to the close of school.

It is especially important that all students attend regularly, that they complete all assignments and have their work done in order that they may receive the best marks and otherwise profit from their schooling.

We list just a few of the many activities on the calendar for this month:

May 11 - Top Ten Per Cent Banquet, Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 12 -- First Grade Pre-Enrollment, 8:00 to 4:30 P.M., all elementary schools; Open House at Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 15 -- Open House -- Senior High, 6:30 P.M.; Pop band concert following Open House.

May 16 -- Drama Club production at Middle School, 8:00 P.M.; Open House at Matthews School, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 17 -- Honors Assembly, Senior High, 2:30; Open House, Southwest and Lincoln, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 18 -- Open House, Lee Hunter and Airport, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.; Seventh and Eighth Grade Band Concert, 7:30 P.M., Middle School.

May 19 -- First Grade -- "Orientation Tea" 2:30 P.M., all elementary schools.

May 21 -- Baccalaureate, 7:30 P.M. Senior High.

May 26 -- Commencement, 7:30 P.M., Senior High.

Forty - two adult trainees who have graduated from the Manpower Development Training Act class in automatic heating and refrigeration have been employed. At least two were employed in supervisory positions, one at a beginning salary at $7300 a year.

Manpower Director, Bill Sikes, reports that seven who completed training in upholstery have been employed. This constitutes 100 per cent employment for these two groups.

We believe that this is a fairly good illustration that through the use of tax funds, federal in this case, the unskilled and unemployed, can with proper training become job holders and consequently, tax payers. As a tax payer the worker will in a comparatively short time repay to the government the cost of training and thereafter his tax contribution can help to support those essential services which he and his fellow citizens will enjoy. Without this training it is probable that many of these previously unskilled individuals would have been supported by some form of welfare or dole.

More important even than the foregoing, is the fact that the individual becomes a producer, gains the self-confidence of holding a job and thus supports himself and his family.

We believe that the tax payer gets the highest return in the "War on Poverty", from education. Education is about the only one of these programs in which the benefits will last and where the cause of low - income, or no income, can be permanently removed.

The ability to perform a service for the employer is a necessity for getting and holding almost any kind of job. It should be remembered that an employer must get value received from the employee if he is to stay in business, whether in private or public enterprise. Another factor in employment is the willingness of the employee to work. The mere fact that a person needs a job is of little or no concern to the employer. The employer is looking for someone who can fill his need, who can perform and who is willing.

Employment is a two way street. An employer has a responsibility to pay a decent wage and the worker has a responsibility to earn what he makes.

This school system provides almost unlimited opportunity for job training for youth and adults who have no salable skills. Yet many refuse to put out the effort to learn a skill or how to perform in a job. These are the ones who complain the loudest about unemployment.

We know of very few individuals who are skilled and who are willing to work, who cannot find employment. In fact we have calls every week from employers who are looking for capable people. They are usually not concerned about race, religion or sex of the individual, they merely want people who can and will perform in a job.

We cite this as an example that some people really do not want to work: We recently employed one of our youngsters whom we thought needed the money, to work at a job which he could have done, at a wage of $1.25 per hour. We think this is pretty good for a high school student. However, this individual, who is physically fit, quit this job and complained he couldn't make enough because he had to pay cab fare to and from his home. We suspect that walking the relatively short distance involved would not have hurt this individual.

The point we are trying to make is that the mere desire for a job is not enough. The employee must be willing and able to earn what he is paid. We are in a position to train both youth and adults for jobs. Our employment rate for those who have been trained to work has been exceptionally high, however, the responsibility is still that of the individual who wants a job.

Recommend Steve Woods for Waiver-of-Fees

ROLLA - Steve Wayne Woods, 923 Hawthorne, Sikeston, has been recommended to receive a curators freshman waiver-of-fees at the Univeristy of Missouri at Rolla for the 1967-68 school year.

The curators freshman waiver-of-fees are made to qualified graduates of accredited Missouri high schools who rank in the top quarter of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile on standardized college aptitude tests.

Recipients are now high school seniors who have been accepted as freshmen at the University of Missouri at Rolla following the completion of their high school work. They will major in one of the degree areas offered in science, engineering, humanities or social studies on the Rolla campus.

Stoddard Health Center Planned

BLOOMFIELD -- Stoddard county community action agency coordinators, the county nurse and aides met with Wayne French to make plans for the county home health center at the new city hall.

French is chairman of the Stoddard county CAA board. A room at the city hall has been donated for the health center.

The home health aide center is funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity under the administration of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville.

Training will start immediately for the aides, who will be trained by the county nurse, Mrs. Gaines. Eight aides will be working out of the four CAA centers located at Dexter, Advance, Bell City and Gray Ridge.

The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Purpose of the program is to give home care to those who cannot help themselves and to see that they are made more comfortable by the home aides' visits.

Referrals will be made through the neighborhood service centers and the health office.

Bill Claire, DAEOC director, was present at the meeting to assist with the program's planning.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for our homes and the high privilege of living the gospel there. Guide us that we become more like the Master, in whose name we pray. Amen.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

The remaining weeks of school will be busy for all: students, teachers, all school employees, and we are sure that parents are equally busy in seeing that their children meet schedules, make all commitments, participate in the many academic and extra-curricular affairs relating to the close of school.

It is especially important that all students attend regularly, that they complete all assignments and have their work done in order that they may receive the best marks and otherwise profit from their schooling.

We list just a few of the many activities on the calendar for this month:

May 11 - Top Ten Per Cent Banquet, Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 12 -- First Grade Pre-Enrollment, 8:00 to 4:30 P.M., all elementary schools; Open House at Middle School, 6:30 P.M.

May 15 -- Open House -- Senior High, 6:30 P.M.; Pop band concert following Open House.

May 16 -- Drama Club production at Middle School, 8:00 P.M.; Open House at Matthews School, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 17 -- Honors Assembly, Senior High, 2:30; Open House, Southwest and Lincoln, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.

May 18 -- Open House, Lee Hunter and Airport, 7:00 to 8:30 P.M.; Seventh and Eighth Grade Band Concert, 7:30 P.M., Middle School.

May 19 -- First Grade -- "Orientation Tea" 2:30 P.M., all elementary schools.

May 21 -- Baccalaureate, 7:30 P.M. Senior High.

May 26 -- Commencement, 7:30 P.M., Senior High.

Forty - two adult trainees who have graduated from the Manpower Development Training Act class in automatic heating and refrigeration have been employed. At least two were employed in supervisory positions, one at a beginning salary at $7300 a year.

Manpower Director, Bill Sikes, reports that seven who completed training in upholstery have been employed. This constitutes 100 per cent employment for these two groups.

We believe that this is a fairly good illustration that through the use of tax funds, federal in this case, the unskilled and unemployed, can with proper training become job holders and consequently, tax payers. As a tax payer the worker will in a comparatively short time repay to the government the cost of training and thereafter his tax contribution can help to support those essential services which he and his fellow citizens will enjoy. Without this training it is probable that many of these previously unskilled individuals would have been supported by some form of welfare or dole.

More important even than the foregoing, is the fact that the individual becomes a producer, gains the self-confidence of holding a job and thus supports himself and his family.

We believe that the tax payer gets the highest return in the "War on Poverty", from education. Education is about the only one of these programs in which the benefits will last and where the cause of low - income, or no income, can be permanently removed.

The ability to perform a service for the employer is a necessity for getting and holding almost any kind of job. It should be remembered that an employer must get value received from the employee if he is to stay in business, whether in private or public enterprise. Another factor in employment is the willingness of the employee to work. The mere fact that a person needs a job is of little or no concern to the employer. The employer is looking for someone who can fill his need, who can perform and who is willing.

Employment is a two way street. An employer has a responsibility to pay a decent wage and the worker has a responsibility to earn what he makes.

This school system provides almost unlimited opportunity for job training for youth and adults who have no salable skills. Yet many refuse to put out the effort to learn a skill or how to perform in a job. These are the ones who complain the loudest about unemployment.

We know of very few individuals who are skilled and who are willing to work, who cannot find employment. In fact we have calls every week from employers who are looking for capable people. They are usually not concerned about race, religion or sex of the individual, they merely want people who can and will perform in a job.

We cite this as an example that some people really do not want to work: We recently employed one of our youngsters whom we thought needed the money, to work at a job which he could have done, at a wage of $1.25 per hour. We think this is pretty good for a high school student. However, this individual, who is physically fit, quit this job and complained he couldn't make enough because he had to pay cab fare to and from his home. We suspect that walking the relatively short distance involved would not have hurt this individual.

The point we are trying to make is that the mere desire for a job is not enough. The employee must be willing and able to earn what he is paid. We are in a position to train both youth and adults for jobs. Our employment rate for those who have been trained to work has been exceptionally high, however, the responsibility is still that of the individual who wants a job.

Recommend Steve Woods for Waiver-of-Fees

ROLLA - Steve Wayne Woods, 923 Hawthorne, Sikeston, has been recommended to receive a curators freshman waiver-of-fees at the Univeristy of Missouri at Rolla for the 1967-68 school year.

The curators freshman waiver-of-fees are made to qualified graduates of accredited Missouri high schools who rank in the top quarter of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile of their high school graduation class and in the top quartile on standardized college aptitude tests.

Recipients are now high school seniors who have been accepted as freshmen at the University of Missouri at Rolla following the completion of their high school work. They will major in one of the degree areas offered in science, engineering, humanities or social studies on the Rolla campus.

Stoddard Health Center Planned

BLOOMFIELD -- Stoddard county community action agency coordinators, the county nurse and aides met with Wayne French to make plans for the county home health center at the new city hall.

French is chairman of the Stoddard county CAA board. A room at the city hall has been donated for the health center.

The home health aide center is funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity under the administration of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville.

Training will start immediately for the aides, who will be trained by the county nurse, Mrs. Gaines. Eight aides will be working out of the four CAA centers located at Dexter, Advance, Bell City and Gray Ridge.

The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Purpose of the program is to give home care to those who cannot help themselves and to see that they are made more comfortable by the home aides' visits.

Referrals will be made through the neighborhood service centers and the health office.

Bill Claire, DAEOC director, was present at the meeting to assist with the program's planning.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for our homes and the high privilege of living the gospel there. Guide us that we become more like the Master, in whose name we pray. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: The teenagers here in Memphis think you are tuned in our world like no other adult. You must get a ton of mail from teenagers or you must talk to a lot of kids because you really have the word. Just to keep you posted I am sending a copy of a questionnaire that has been floating around our high school. Nobody knows for sure where this thing got started, but the kids in my crowd, both guys and dolls, think it's pretty good.

I would like your opinion of this questionnaire and I know you will level. Please don't suggest I take it home and get my mother's views. If she saw it she would faint, and we'd have to call the doctor. Here it is:

Dear N and D: I can't evaluate this questionnaire because each questionnaire should be evaluated on the basis of the individual scoring. Let me say it's darned interesting (though somewhat gamey) and I appreciate your sending it to me.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . . If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE DESERTED HUSBAND

Margie made two mistakes. The first, which she quickly realized, was in running away from her hard-to-get-along-with husband. The second was in asking him to take her back.

"Sure you can come back," her husband told her graciously. "But, you'll have to live in the bunk house with the hired hands until I say you can come back to the house. Out there, you'll be able to repent in leisure for having run away in haste."

Margie, however, quickly rebuffed her husband's unconditional terms of reconciliation and departed once again. This time, he took prompt and affirmative action. He sued to end their marriage on the grounds of desertion.

"I offered to take her back once," he told the judge, "but I won't do it again. This time we're through!"

"He never offered to take me back," objected Margie. "He offered to exile me to the bunkhouse. Siberia might have been better."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Margie's husband release from the marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The Judge held that when a wife deserts a husband and offers to return, she is entitled to be taken back under terms that are not inconsistent with her self respect, such as having to live in a bunk house with hired help.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A former employer, upon request from a prospective employer for a letter of reference, may, as a general rule, freely evaluate the employee as long as he does so without intent to harm the employee.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

That night I hauled my 111 pounds (which felt like 222) out of that bed and fell on my knees. It was rather a strange feeling to be on my knees, head bowed and eyes shut tight; for in all my years of praying, I had never bowed my head. Always I had looked up from whatever position I happened to be in at the time. Now I confessed to God that I was a sinner and asked his forgiveness . . . .

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago

W. S. Way has sold his interest in the Missouri Land and Loan Co. He hasn't decided just what line of business he will follow as yet.

Dr. A. A. Mayfield and Dr. R. E. Wylie bought 640 acres of reclaimed land last week from Sikes Bros. The tract is about five miles from Malden on the Frisco and all but 100 acres are in cultivation.

J. H. Baugher of this city has been awarded the contract for J. H. Stubbs' new home, for which the Laubis Architectural Co., executed the plans.

It was thoughtful of Mr. and Mrs. Penn Parsons in sending two large cakes to the Sikeston boys in camp at Fort Riley. You must know these boys thoughts wandered back to home and mother when these goodies arrived. The big hearts of this couple will not be forgotten by Frank Van Horne, Ernest Arterburn and Harry Blanton for many a day.

When the high waters were upon us, with levees breaking, homes and livestock lost, Southeast Missouri thought she was hard hit, but it meant little to the awful tornado that hit our neighboring city of Poplar Bluff Monday afternoon. It is a hard matter to get at, the actual number of killed and wounded, but the latest report Thursday morning gave the number of deaths as 101, while the wounded was close to 300.

The Sixth annual banquet and entertainment of the Sikeston High School alumnae will be held at the high school gymnasium on May 19, immediately following the graduating exercises.

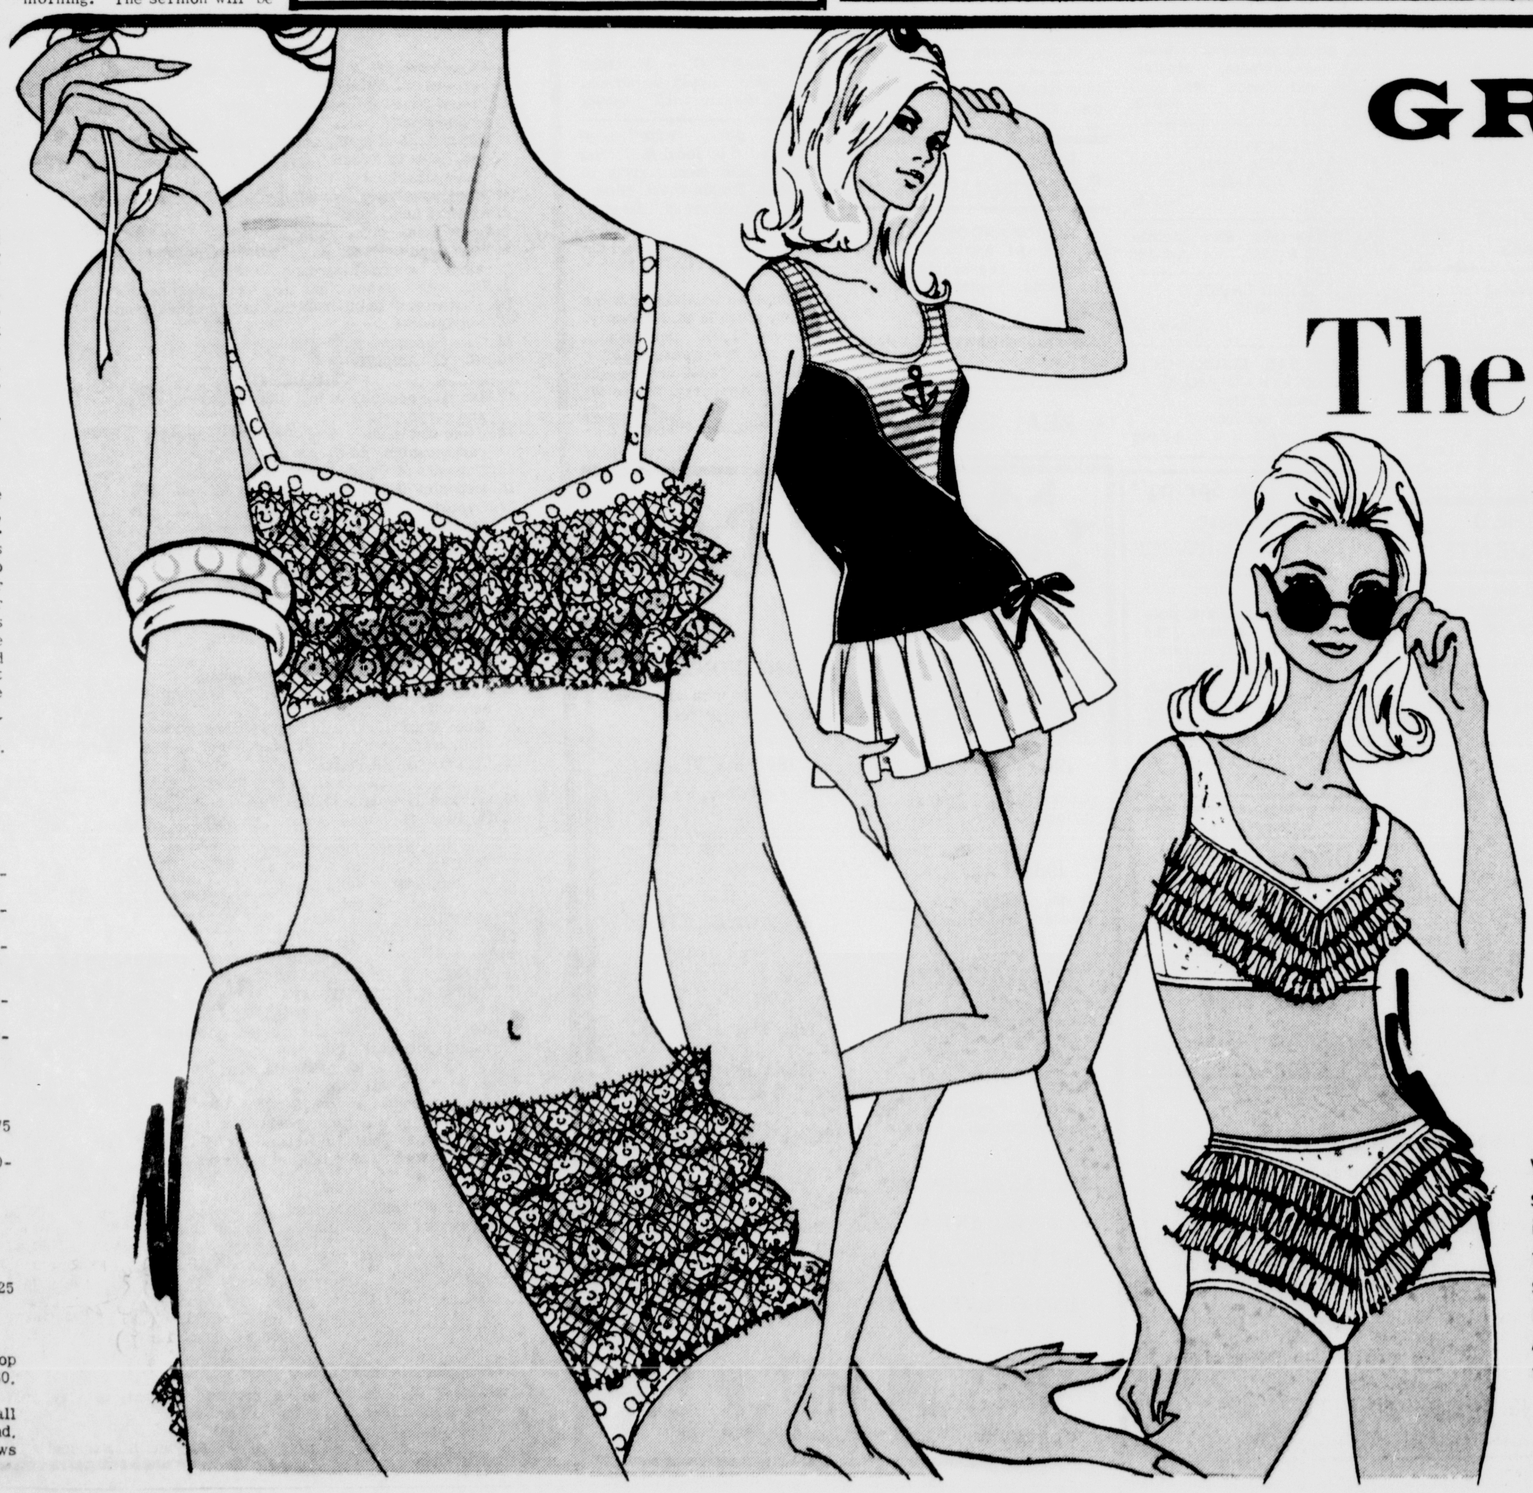

The commencement sermon will be held this year at the high school auditorium Sunday morning. The sermon will be

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: The teenagers here in Memphis think you are tuned in our world like no other adult. You must get a ton of mail from teenagers or you must talk to a lot of kids because you really have the word. Just to keep you posted I am sending a copy of a questionnaire that has been floating around our high school. Nobody knows for sure where this thing got started, but the kids in my crowd, both guys and dolls, think it's pretty good.

I would like your opinion of this questionnaire and I know you will level. Please don't suggest I take it home and get my mother's views. If she saw it she would faint, and we'd have to call the doctor. Here it is:

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE DESERTED HUSBAND

Margie made two mistakes. The first, which she quickly realized, was in running away from her hard-to-get-along-with husband. The second was in asking him to take her back.

"Sure you can come back," her husband told her graciously. "But, you'll have to live in the bunk house with the hired hands until I say you can come back to the house. Out there, you'll be able to repent in leisure for having run away in haste."

Margie, however, quickly rebuffed her husband's unconditional terms of reconciliation and departed once again. This time, he took prompt and affirmative action. He sued to end their marriage on the grounds of desertion.

"I offered to take her back once," he told the judge, "but I won't do it again. This time we're through!"

"He never offered to take me back," objected Margie. "He offered to exile me to the bunkhouse. Siberia might have been better."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Margie's husband release from the marriage?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The Judge held that when a wife deserts a husband and offers to return, she is entitled to be taken back under terms that are not inconsistent with her self respect, such as having to live in a bunk house with hired help.

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

A former employer, upon request from a prospective employer for a letter of reference, may, as a general rule, freely evaluate the employee as long as he does so without intent to harm the employee.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

That night I hauled my 111 pounds (which felt like 222) out of that bed and fell on my knees. It was rather a strange feeling to be on my knees, head bowed and eyes shut tight; for in all my years of praying, I had never bowed my head. Always I had looked up from whatever position I happened to be in at the time. Now I confessed to God that I was a sinner and asked his forgiveness . . . .

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
May 11, 1917

W. S. Way has sold his interest in the Missouri Land and Loan Co. He hasn't decided just what line of business he will follow as yet.

Dr. A. A. Mayfield and Dr. R. E. Wylie bought 640 acres of reclaimed land last week from Sikes Bros. The tract is about five miles from Malden on the Frisco and all but 100 acres are in cultivation.

J. H. Baugher of this city has been awarded the contract for J. H. Stubbs' new home, for which the Laubis Architectural Co., executed the plans.

It was thoughtful of Mr. and Mrs. Penn Parsons in sending two large cakes to the Sikeston boys in camp at Fort Riley. You must know these boys thoughts wandered back to home and mother when these goodies arrived. The big hearts of this couple will not be forgotten by Frank Van Horne, Ernest Arterburn and Harry Blanton for many a day.

When the high waters were upon us, with levees breaking, homes and livestock lost, Southeast Missouri thought she was hard hit, but it meant little to the awful tornado that hit our neighboring city of Poplar Bluff Monday afternoon. It is a hard matter to get at, the actual number of killed and wounded, but the latest report Thursday morning gave the number of deaths as 101, while the wounded was close to 300.

The Sixth annual banquet and entertainment of the Sikeston High School alumnae will be held at the high school gymnasium on May 19, immediately following the graduating exercises.

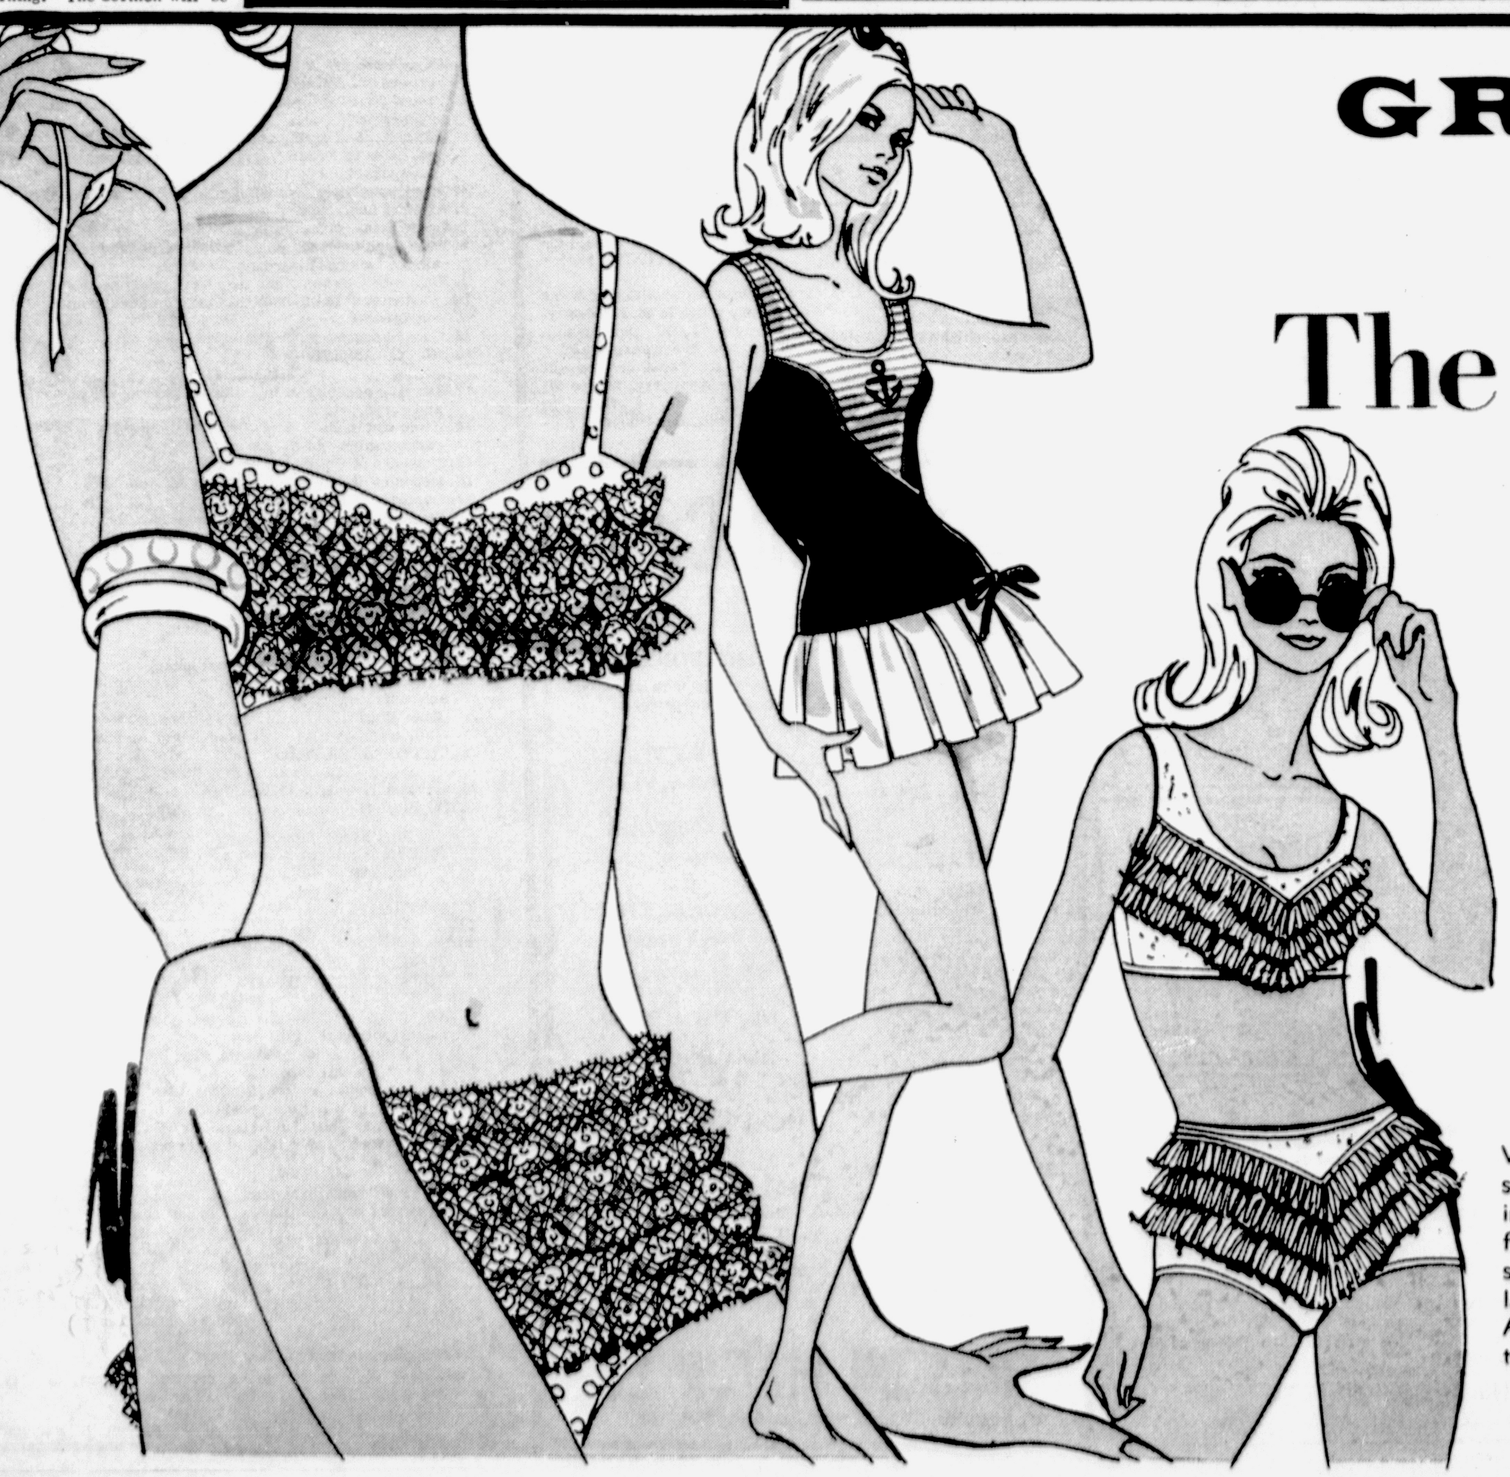

The commencement sermon will be held this year at the high school auditorium Sunday morning. The sermon will be

When you look for the most room and the smoothest ride and the best value, you'll end up with a Chevrolet wagon everytime.

Chevrolet Impala, roomiest in its class. While extra roominess is perhaps the best reason for buying a Chevrolet wagon, consider, also, these bonuses: Body by Fisher, Chevrolet dependability, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Magic-Mirror finish. Chevelle Malibu, smoother, quieter ride. A Malibu not only gives you a Full Coil suspension ride, but the body mountings are double-cushioned. And Chevelle carries plenty. It opens wide. 54.6 inches, to be exact, 28.5 inches high. Flip the second seat down and you've got 86 cubic feet of cargo space for all your gear. Chevelle was built to take a lot. Chevy II Nova, best equipped for the money. All-vinyl upholstery is standard. Flush-and-dry rocker panels that clean themselves are standard. Separate panels beneath each fender to inhibit rust are standard. Mono-Plate rear suspension to smooth the ride is standard. Price? Below standard.

When you look for the most room and the smoothest ride and the best value, you'll end up with a Chevrolet wagon everytime.

Chevrolet Impala, roomiest in its class. While extra roominess is perhaps the best reason for buying a Chevrolet wagon, consider, also, these bonuses: Body by Fisher, Chevrolet dependability, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Magic-Mirror finish. Chevelle Malibu, smoother, quieter ride. A Malibu not only gives you a Full Coil suspension ride, but the body mountings are double-cushioned. And Chevelle carries plenty. It opens wide. 54.6 inches, to be exact, 28.5 inches high. Flip the second seat down and you've got 86 cubic feet of cargo space for all your gear. Chevelle was built to take a lot. Chevy II Nova, best equipped for the money. All-vinyl upholstery is standard. Flush-and-dry rocker panels that clean themselves are standard. Separate panels beneath each fender to inhibit rust are standard. Mono-Plate rear suspension to smooth the ride is standard. Price? Below standard.
